Headless Body of Young Girl Located in Swamp

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 14—State and local authorities today investigated the possibility that the headless body of a girl of about 17 found in the infamous "murder swamp" near here may have been the victim of Cleveland's "mad butcher," whose bodies have been turned up for the last six years.

Three boys wandering through the swamp, scene of the discovery of six torsos and five skulls of murder victims a dozen years ago, stumbled on the nude body.

G-MEN IN WEST BRING REPORTS OF SPYING RING

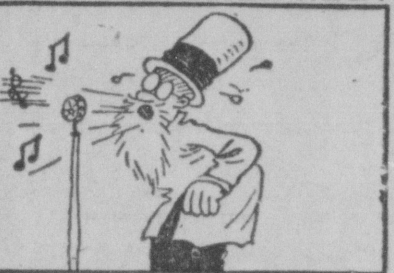

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 14—With the sudden arrival in San Diego of J. Edgar Hoover, No. 1 G-man, and six operatives of his Department of Federal Investigation, the report became widely circulated today that a new spy ring has begun operations at the San Diego naval base and in aircraft factories.

"No comment" was all the information that could be gained from the operatives who, posing as traveling salesman, registered in San Diego and La Jolla hotels. The reports also had it that important arrests would be made by Hoover and his men during the week end.

STORM WARNING ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The weather bureau issued warnings early today that a "slight tropical disturbance... attended by strong winds, squally weather and rough seas" was moving north-westward from Puerto Rico, apparently toward the continent, at 12 to 15 miles an hour.

Chancellor Hitler launched his "war in earnest" today by sending the 29,150-ton British battleship Royal Oak to the bottom of the North Sea, and indications piled up that Germany's grand offensive on land would not long lag behind the vigorous U-boat campaign.

Accelerated diplomatic activity in the slow-starting war sped through the final stages, and now the emphasis is placed on last-minute military preparations.

French quarters believed that Germany's first major stroke would come through the Netherlands, and come soon.

Chancellor Hitler himself, it was reported via Amsterdam, is preparing headquarters on the Western Front to supervise the offensive, as he did in Poland.

With indications lacking that Hitler might address a direct request to President Roosevelt to mediate—the President having made it clear he would not act unless other belligerents also approached him—Hitler concentrated on trying to gain Soviet and Italian military support.

Soviet Premier V. M. Molotov and Italian Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, according to German sources, are due in Berlin shortly for talks, not on diplomatic questions, but on "active measures."

Finland, meanwhile, remained in a state of high tension, but government quarters said that Russia's proposals, presented to the Finnish delegation in Moscow, at least left it possible to continue the talks.

Helsingfors was largely deserted by women and children, one-third of its population of 300,000 having gone to the country.

National service by all civilians was ordered by President Kyosti Kallio, and the country was welded more closely together politically when two more ministers, representing the Swedish minority, were appointed to the cabinet.

While Russia seeks to gain power in Finland, as she did in the other Baltic states, and possibly win control of the strategically important Aland Islands, Finland moved closer towards collaboration with the Scandinavian monarchies.

President Kallio was invited along with King Christian of Denmark and King Haakon of Norway to attend a conference in Stockholm, Sweden, next Wednesday called by King Gustaf of Sweden.

The conference will recall the early days of the World War, when the same three kings met at Malmoe, Sweden, in another demonstration of Scandinavian solidarity.

However, it was believed that in spite of Finland's defiant stand against the Soviets, none of her Scandinavian partners appears inclined to give her military assistance in case she resists possible Soviet aggression.

Turkey and France are about to sign an agreement, it was understood. Reaffirming Turkey's obligations to join the Western Allies in the event the war is extended to the Mediterranean—in other words, if Italy fulfills the pledges of her alliance with Germany.

Russo-Turkish negotiations in Moscow, according to the Istanbul newspaper Yeni Sabah, resulted in an agreement which does not conflict with Turkey's undertakings with France and Britain.

ROYAL OAK, USED IN WORLD WAR, DOWN IN NORTH

Disaster Regarded By London As Greatest Suffered Yet In Conflict

DEATH TOLL UNCERTAIN

Craft Declared To Be Third Largest Of His Majesty's Mighty Fleet

LONDON, Oct. 14—With an apparent loss of at least 700 lives, the 29,150-ton British battleship Royal Oak was sunk, presumably by a German submarine, today.

LONDON, Oct. 14—Britain's big battleship Royal Oak was sunk today, presumably by a submarine, the admiralty announced.

A communique announced: "The secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that H. M. S. Royal Oak has been sunk, it is believed by U-boat action."

Sinking of the Royal Oak marks the greatest disaster the British navy has suffered in the war.

A heavily-armed craft of 29,150 tons, she is in the second class of British battle wagons, ranking only below the Nelson and Rodney.

The aircraft carrier Courageous, torpedoed and sunk a month ago with the loss of 500 lives, was a 22,500-ton ship.

Loss of life aboard the Royal Oak was not stated in the first admiralty bulletin, but she carried a complement of between 1000 and 1150 men.

Veteran of World War

The Royal Oak was a veteran of the World War, having been launched on November 17, 1914, not long after the conflict broke out. Costing somewhat less than her four sister-ships, the Royal Oak was worth, when built, $12,300,000. She was refitted between 1922 and 1924.

A list of the Royal Oak survivors will be issued as soon as possible, the admiralty announced.

As word of the disaster to the navy spread through the country, thousands of wives and other relatives of the crew flocked to the admiralty and newspaper offices anxiously awaiting the first news about the dead.

No further word, however, will be given out for the time being, the admiralty said.

It was assumed that the battleship was with other units of the British grand fleet on blockade patrol duty in the North Sea, somewhere east of Scotland.

Five hundred eighty feet long, and 102 feet wide, the Royal Oak carried eight 15-inch guns, twelve six-inch, and fourteen of smaller calibre. She had two torpedo tubes.

Only the Nelson and Rodney, carrying nine 16-inch guns, are more heavily armed.

To sink the Royal Oak the submarine's deadly missiles had to penetrate armor plate varying in (Continued on Page Eight)

AUTO WRECK ON RT. 22 BRINGS DAMAGE ACTION

Suit for $205 damages was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Mrs. Edna Hampton, Williamsport, against Roy and Arnold Daly, 201 Lake Street, Benton Harbor, Mich.

Mrs. Hampton asks $130 for damages to her car and $75 for the loss of the use of her car as the result of an accident on Route 22 in Deercreek Township on last August 9. The petition charges that a truck driven by Bill Lewis, Benton Harbor, agent for the owners, Roy and Arnold Daly, was driven in a careless manner and collided with the plaintiff's car driven by her husband, Charles Hampton.

C. OF C. TO AID IN CAMPAIGN ON BIGELOW PLANS

Business Council Asks City Group To Join In Fight Against Amendments

Directors of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce were appointed as an emergency committee Friday night to conduct a campaign in the rural districts of the county against the Bigelow Amendments.

Appointment of the emergency committee was made by Ray Rowland, chairman of the County Business Council, at a meeting of members of the council and other interested folk in the American Hotel Coffee Shop. Thirty attended the meeting.

The committee will aid in the distribution of literature through the rural sections and arrange discussions on the amendments for meetings for Parent-Teacher Associations, granges and other rural organizations.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce are W. E. Wallace, James I. Smith, Jr., R. L. Brehmer, T. O. Gilliland, Mack Parrett, Jr., George Griffith and Carl Hunter.

Homor Tranthan, Columbus attorney, a member of the Ohio Emergency Council fighting the issue, was the speaker at the meeting Friday night. He estimated that 690,000 persons in Ohio would qualify for pensions under provisions of one of the amendments. This amendment would pay each Ohioan over 60 a $50 a month pension. Married couples would receive $80 provided they are no longer employed in gainful occupation.

POLICE HUNTING THREE WHO TOOK 300 UNCUT GEMS

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—Police today pressed a vigorous search for three bandits who kidnaped a New York jewelry salesman and then robbed him of 300 uncut diamonds valued at approximately $125,000.

Working with precision and in full view of scores of pedestrians, two of the bandits accosted the salesman, Sereno P. Davis, 42, at a busy downtown intersection. They forced him into an old model automobile driven by a third member of the gang. The car bore Indiana license plates.

Davis was released a few blocks down the street after the men had taken four wallets and a brief case containing the gems.

Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan said the robbers were apparently well versed in crime. They escaped through a swiftly organized police radio car blockade.

The diamonds ranged in weight from one-quarter carat to three carats.

Address May Delay Ballot; Lindbergh Raps Canada For Entering War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—An administration drive to speed conclusion of senate neutrality debate met swift rebuff today as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh joined the forces fighting President Roosevelt's arms embargo repeal legislation.

Senator Clark (D) Missouri, a leader in the opposition forces, countered tentative plans of Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky to wind up debate by extra long daily sessions with this terse assertion:

"If the proponents of this bill can get tough, so can we."

Col. Lindbergh reinforced the opposition forces with a radio speech, his second on neutrality, bluntly denying that the proposed arms embargo repeal would help democracy in Europe, and openly asserting repeal "is a step toward war."

The flyer scorned Canada for joining the European conflict, asking if "they have a right to draw this hemisphere into a European war simply because they prefer the crown of England to American independence."

West Is Ours

"The Western Hemisphere is our domain," he declared. "We must protect our sister American nations from foreign invasion. But, in turn, they have a duty to us. They should not place us in the position of having to defend them in America while they engage in wars abroad."

Lindbergh outlined what he called a program of legislation to make a "contribution to western civilization" and maintain American independence. (Continued on Page Eight)

NEARLY ALL OF BELL TELEPHONE REFUND IS PAID

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—Only $172,306 remains to be refunded to subscribers of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in accordance with the refunds ordered by the state utilities commission April 26, 1938, it was revealed today.

A report of the company stated that a total of $7,063,671 had been distributed. The amount yet to be refunded, representing unclaimed refunds, will be paid to political subdivisions, according to an order of the utilities commission.

The commission yesterday ordered Ohio Bell to discontinue its 15-cents-a-month extra charge for handset or cradle type phones. It also ordered the company to extend its move and instrument change charge of one dollar to include service connections.

AUTO WRECK ON RT. 22 BRINGS DAMAGE ACTION

Suit for $205 damages was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Mrs. Edna Hampton, Williamsport, against Roy and Arnold Daly, 201 Lake Street, Benton Harbor, Mich.

Mrs. Hampton asks $150 for damages to her car and $75 for the loss of the use of her car as the result of an accident on Route 22 in Deer Creek Township on last August 9. The petition charges that a truck driven by Bill Lewis, Benton Harbor, agent for the owners, Roy and Arnold Daly, was driven in a careless manner and collided with the plaintiff's car driven by her husband, Charles Hampton.

If Coach Earl Miller of Frankfort would teach his athletes a little bit more about the fundamentals of football and less about the fine points of the none too gentle art of slugging in a grid contest Frankfort might some day win a contest. As it is Circleville High School gained a 19-0 victory Friday afternoon in a game that will be remembered for a long while as the roughest, foulest, most unsportsmanlike, and poorest officiated in which a Circleville team has appeared for many years.

Had the game been cleanly played, had the officials shown the slightest knowledge of what it was all about the score might have ended with Circleville having at least 40 points. The Tigers were

YALE CONFIDENT

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14 — A confident Yale team faced a powerful University of Pennsylvania eleven in the bowl today. Yale is believed to have a better team than last year which went down to a 2-0 defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania. However, Penn is considered much stronger than it looked against Lafayette last week and return of Jim Connell to the lineup is expected to give it a scoring edge.

PRINCETON VS. CORNELL

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 14 — Princeton entered its first major contest of the season today against Cornell and although the starting gun found the Nassau eleven the underdogs, its followers hoped for victory especially if its passing attack begins to click.

that much better than the Frankfort lads. Frankfort was never inside the Red and Black 30 yard line and didn't have a single scoring threat in its backfield except Wright, a colored lad, who spent most of his time trying to find vulnerable spots about the persons of the wearers of the Red and Black.

The Tigers scored in the second period in a pass play, Bowsher to Walters, that netted 21 yards, the end taking the leather high in the air. A smash by Bowsher failed to register the point.

The second touchdown came in the fourth period when Bowsher smashed the line after a series of off-tackle plays mixed with a couple of passes put the leather in scoring position. A pass, Bowsher to Walters, netted the extra point.

Frankfort Punt Bad

The final one was made in the fourth period after Coach Roy Black had made numerous substitutions. The Frankfort punter, rushed badly by the Tiger forwards, booted straight up in the air, the ball going out of bounds on Frankfort's own one-yard line. Marvin Jenkins, playing despite illness of the last week, went over on the first play, Geib taking the pass from center, faking to Eby and handing the leather to Jenkins who smashed through the left side of the line. A pass failed to connect.

The Tigers lost a touchdown in the first period when the ball was knocked from Bowsher's hands on the two yard line after a long drive. At least three more scores were taken away by lurid officiating of the type that bobs up at the most inopportune time for one of the two contesting teams.

"Three Blind Mice"

Tigers rosters, and there must have been at least 250 of them, enjoyed themselves in the last half by singing "Three Blind Mice" in honor of the gentlemen in the striped shirts (some insisted the stripes ran the wrong direction.)

As a result of the physical beating Coach Black's boys took, one of the finest lads on the squad was bedfast Saturday with head injuries. He is Johnny Sabine, sophom. tackle, who was kicked during the first two minutes of play. "Sabey" has a slight concussion which is not expected to become serious, but Dr. H. D. Jackson, who examined him, said that he should be given complete rest.

Many other members of the Tiger squad are bumped and bruised, Moe Harden having a shiner; Hansel Warner, acting captain, having the side of his face torn, and many of the boys being bruised about the body where fists rather than pads did much damage.

Tigers Defended Selves

The Red and Black athletes did a little roughing on their own after they saw that their only defense against the tactics of the home team. Frankfort's boys, too, should have some sore spots today. Frankfort taught the local boys a new trick, that of tossing dust in opponents' eyes. The Frankfort field was dusty and several times during the game Tiger gridders received the full benefit of a dusting off.

The Tigers will have a chance to make their record for the season even next Wednesday when Bremen comes to the county seat for a Pumpkin Show game. The contest is scheduled immediately after the Miss Pumpkin Show parade. Bremen was victorious over the Red and Black last year by two touchdowns.

Just an afterthought: Frankfort definitely will not be on Circleville High School's schedule next fall.

GOLFERS TO COMPETE

Ten Chillicothe couples and at least that many from Circleville are expected to participate in the two-ball mixed foursome to be contested Sunday on the Pickaway Country Club golf course. Pro Bill Bowman urges that all Circleville residents who intend to participate be present at 1 o'clock to begin play.

Bremen Oilers Edged; Hillsboro Team Loses

Bremen, Circleville High opponent next Wednesday evening in a Pumpkin Show feature, lost a hard-fought 7-0 game to Worthington Friday night. A high wind played havoc with offensives of both teams. Worthington, a 13-0 victor over Circleville last year, scored in the first period on a pass, Moore to Cabell, good for 35 yards.

The Oilers from Fairfield County put up a battle, but couldn't send ball carriers into pay dirt territory. Glinery, Hufford and Conner were reported to have gained much ground during the game for Bremen.

The Bremen team is without the Kelley Brothers who made life miserable for several Central Ohio schools last year. The only possible comparison in the strength of the Circleville and Bremen teams is found in the fact that Lancaster defeated Circleville 51-0 and Bremen 33-0.

The South Central Ohio League race was upset Friday evening when Wilmington won its first game of the year and that victory happened to be over Hillsboro, a team that many had picked to knock off the gonfalon. The game was played on a muddy field at Wilmington. Goodwin, college town end, covering a Hillsboro fumble in the end zone for the touchdown. Wilmington went to the 10 yard line twice, but couldn't go over again.

Washington C. H. went on top the league heap by winning impressively from Greenfield, 26-0, on the McClain field. McClain outgained Washington in first downs but fumbled four times inside its own 20 yard line. The Washington Blue Lions used a passing attack to advantage, the same weapon that Circleville used to gain a 26-12 edge over Greenfield last week.

Circleville gained a 19-0 victory over Frankfort in a non-league game.

GOPHER, PURDUE TILT TO PROVIDE GREAT CONTEST

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 14 — The Golden Gophers of Minnesota open the defense of their Big Ten football championship today against a Purdue eleven intent on breaking Minnesota's six year winning streak in its own stadium.
Rated potentially stronger than last year's eleven, the Gophers so far this season have proven unpredictable. Smothering Arizona in the first game. They were upset last week by Nebraska, 6 to 0. Purdue, with its strongest team in several seasons, lost a close decision to Notre Dame two weeks ago, 3 to 0 and has been resting since.

THE TROJANS of Southern California are on the march again. Mighty last year, the Trojans are just as mighty this season and tagged by most everyone as the team to beat for the national championship.

Football observers overlook that first Trojan game, the 7-7 tie with Oregon. Not that the Web-feet are soft touches. And they didn't play over their heads, either. But the Southern California team apparently failed to click as it can and lacked the punch to take the tilt.

Easy Over Cougars

The comparative easy win over Washington State, a team that had trimmed strong Gonzaga, 19-6, offers proof of the Trojan power.

Besides, the Troy machine started off slow last year, losing to Alabama in the opening game. By midseason the U. S. C. team was among the nation's leaders. Eventually, the team turned into a Rose Bowl victory.

Veterans for every position was Howard Jones' happy lot this year. All-stars clutter up the roster, including Harry Smith, the running guard who earned All-American rating last year.

Nave Is Star

Two of the finest quarterbacks in the business run the team. Doyle Nave, hero of the Rose Bowl game, has been promoted to the regular job. He alternates with Greenville Lansell, Pasadena, Cal., youth who roamed far and wide for the Trojans last year. To boot, Ambling Ambrose

SMU TEAM READY TO TEST IRISH IN GRID JOUST

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 14 — After a lapse of nine years, the Mustangs of Southern Methodist pay a return call today at the Notre Dame football stadium which they helped dedicate by scoring the fighting Irish half out of their wits.

A crowd of 35,000 was expected to see Coach Matty Bell's rangy Texans attempt to snarl Notre Dame 1939 victory string before it grows any longer.

And an impartial observer, if such could be found in these parts, would concede them a lot better chance than was given that Southern Methodist surprise package nine years ago.
Little known and not very well regarded S. M. U. opened Notre Dame's 1930 season in the Rockne memorial stadium by playing the coming national champions to a standstill and with four minutes to play the game was tied 14 to 14.

A pass interception four yards from the goal gave Notre Dame one of its typical last-minute victories 20 to 14.

Southern Methodist this season is gunning for national honors itself and with a 7 to 7 tie against Oklahoma appears to be headed in the right direction.

About evenly matched in weight with the Irish, S. M. U. is nevertheless expected to pin its chances for victory on one of the Southwest's famed aerial attacks rather than attempting to match Coach Elmer Layden's fleet backfield stride for stride.

TRIO OF SOPHS TO START GAME FOR WILDCATS

DeCorrevont And Others Set To Give Ohio State Grid Tussle

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — With three sophomores in the starting backfield, Northwestern's Wildcats today were set for an attempt to rebuild shattered football prestige.

Before 55,000 fans in Ohio stadium, the Evanston gridders, including the widely heralded Bill DeCorrevont, were to clash with Coach Francis Schmidt's Ohio State eleven in the first Big Ten encounter for both aggregations.

The imperturbable weatherman injected a false note into an otherwise gala atmosphere when he predicted cold weather topped with dismal skies, possibly rain. On a wet field, the advantage went to the Buckeyes.

It was pretty well understood that Northwestern's Coach Lynn Waldorf planned to unleash DeCorrevont in a series of slashing end and tackle plays. The speedy sophomore wouldn't have a chance in the mud and on that contingency Ohio fans were cheered considerably.

Besides DeCorrevont, a left half-back, Waldorf said he would use Sophomore Don Clawson, a full-back, and either Don Kruger or Ira Kepford, both first year wing-men. The veteran Jack Ryan was slated for the quarterback post.

Wildcats Thumped

On arrival in Columbus Friday, the Wildcats were a quiet but determined group. The memory of the 23-to-0 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma still rankled. The unusual calmness, something like that which precedes a tropical hurricane, indicated a bitter struggle from the visitors.

Ohio State, featuring the same lineup which opened last week against Missouri, was not unduly optimistic about its chances. The Scarlet and Gray gridders held a healthy respect for the invaders, feeling that last week's Oklahoma debacle was just a case of first game "fumblefutz."

The two squads were about evenly matched in weights, a slight edge going to Northwestern in the line and to Ohio State in the backfield.

Victory for Ohio today would pluck the Bucks from the "dark horse" ranks and place them squarely among the leading contenders for the Big Ten crown. An Ohio defeat would justify those early "die-hards" who predicted the Buckeyes would drop at least three games of the tough eight game card.

ARMY FAVORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Army was a substantial favorite over Columbia at Baker Field today. While Army barely beat Furman and Centre in its two games this season, Columbia did not look any too well in losing to Yale 10 to 7 last week in its opening game.

they are a really great eleven. Their two previous wins this season, however, haven't fully convinced the strategists.

NEW YORK'S PRO TEAM TO TANGLE WITH PHILLIES

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Generally rated as the very best football team in the entire nation on the basis of what has gone before, the New York Giants have begun to reach a peak of perfection after a couple of weeks of dwindling and confidently expect to cut some fancy capers in their first home game of the 1939 season tomorrow. Their opponents will be, reading from left to right, little Dave O'Brien, the forward passer from Texas, and the rest of the Philadelphia Eagles, with a crowd of some 30,000 expected to watch the Giants continue their quest of a second straight National Professional League championship.

They've got a long way to go yet, over a tough road, the game a week from Sunday being an encounter with Chicago's extremely tough Bears, but the Giants are headed in the right direction. At the moment they are deadlocked with the Washington Redskins for the Eastern division leadership. Each has won two games and they played to a tie against each other.

The Detroit Lions are out in front in the Western group with three victories, but are closely trailed by the Bears and Green Bay Packers, the latter two having won three and lost one.

In ranking the Giants as the No. 1 football team we don't need to go beyond the fact that they are the professional champions, which generally is accepted as proof of a team's preeminence, transcending anything that may occur on college gridirons. It seems to be agreed that the best college team could not lick the best pro team.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 14 — The Golden Gophers of Minnesota open the defense of their Big Ten football championship today against a Purdue eleven intent on breaking Minnesota's six year winning streak in its own stadium. Rated potentially stronger than last year's eleven, the Gophers so far this season have proven unpredictable. Smothering Arizona in the first game. They were upset last week by Nebraska, 6 to 0. Purdue, with its strongest team in several seasons, lost a close decision to Notre Dame two weeks ago, 3 to 0 and has been resting since.

THE TROJANS of Southern California are on the march again. Mighty last year, the Trojans are just as mighty this season and tagged by most everyone as the team to beat for the national championship.

Football observers overlook that first Trojan game, the 7-7 tie with Oregon. Not that the Web-ber are soft touches. And they didn't play over their heads, either. But the Southern California team apparently failed to click as it can and lacked the punch to take the tilt.

Easy Over Cougars

The comparative easy win over Washington State, a team that had trimmed strong Gonzaga, 19-6, offers proof of the Trojan power.

Besides, the Troy machine started off slow last year, losing to Alabama in the opening game. By midseason the U. S. C. team was among the nation's leaders. Eventually, the team turned into a Rose Bowl victory.

Veterans for every position was Howard Jones' happy lot this year. All-stars clutter up the roster, including Harry Smith, the running guard who earned All-American rating last year.

Nave Is Star

Two of the finest quarterbacks in the business run the team. Doyle Nave, hero of the Rose Bowl game, has been promoted to the regular job. He alternates with Grenville Lansdell, Pasadena, Cal. youth who roamed far and wide for the Trojans last year. To boot, Ambling Ambrose

SMU TEAM READY TO TEST IRISH IN GRID JOUST

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 14 — After a lapse of nine years, the Mustangs of Southern Methodist pay a return call today at the Notre Dame football stadium which they helped dedicate by searing the fighting Irish half out of their wits.

A crowd of 35,000 was expected to see Coach Matty Bell's rangy Texans attempt to snap Notre Dame 1939 victory string before it grows any longer.

And an impartial observer, if such could be found in these parts, would concede them a lot better chance than was given that Southern Methodist surprise package nine years ago.

Little known and not very well regarded S. M. U. opened Notre Dame's 1930 season in the Rockne memorial stadium by playing the coming national champions to a standstill and with four minutes to play the game was tied 14 to 14.

A pass interception four yards from the goal gave Notre Dame one of its typical last-minute victories 20 to 14.

Southern Methodist this season is gunning for national honors itself and with a 7 to 7 tie against Oklahoma appears to be headed in the right direction.

About evenly matched in weight with the Irish, S. M. U. is nevertheless expected to pin its chances for victory on one of the Southwest's famed aerial attacks rather than attempting to match Coach Elmer Layden's fleet backfield stride for stride.

TRIO OF SOPHS TO START GAME FOR WILDCATS

DeCorrevont And Others Set To Give Ohio State Grid Tussle

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — With three sophomores in the starting backfield, Northwestern's Wildcats today were set for an attempt to rebuild shattered football prestige.

Before 55,000 fans in Ohio stadium, the Evanston gridders, including the widely heralded Bill DeCorrevont, were to clash with Coach Francis Schmidt's Ohio State eleven in the first Big Ten encounter for both aggregations.

The imperturbable weatherman injected a false note into an otherwise gala atmosphere when he predicted cold weather topped with dismal skies, possibly rain. On a wet field, the advantage went to the Buckeyes.

It was pretty well understood that Northwestern's Coach Lynn Waldorf planned to unleash DeCorrevont in a series of slashing end and tackle plays. The speedy sophomore wouldn't have a chance in the mud and on that contingency Ohio fans were cheered considerably.

Wildcats Thumped

On arrival in Columbus Friday, the Wildcats were a quiet but determined group. The memory of the 23-to-0 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma still rankled. The unusual calmness, something like that which precedes a tropical hurricane, indicated a bitter struggle from the visitors.

Ohio State, featuring the same lineup which opened last week against Missouri, was not unduly optimistic about its chances. The Scarlet and Gray gridders held a healthy respect for the invaders, feeling that last week's Oklahoma debacle was just a case of first game "fumbleitis."

The two squads were about evenly matched in weights, a slight edge going to Northwestern in the line and to Ohio State in the backfield.

Victory for Ohio today would pluck the Bucks from the "dark horse" ranks and place them squarely among the leading contenders for the Big Ten crown. An Ohio defeat would justify those early "die-hard" who predicted the Buckeyes would drop at least three games of the tough eight game card.

ARMY FAVORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Army was a substantial favorite over Columbia at Baker Field today. While Army barely beat Furman and Centre in its two games this season, Columbia did not look any too well in losing to Yale 10 to 7 last week in its opening game.

they are a really great eleven. Their two previous wins this season, however, haven't fully convinced the strategists.

NEW YORK'S PRO TEAM TO TANGLE WITH PHILLIES

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Generally rated as the very best football team in the entire nation on the basis of what has gone before, the New York Giants have begun to reach a peak of perfection after a couple of weeks of dwindling and confidently expect to cut some fancy capers in their first home game of the 1939 season tomorrow. Their opponents will be, reading from left to right, little Davie O'Brien, the forward passer from Texas, and the rest of the Philadelphia Eagles, with a crowd of some 30,000 expected to watch the Giants continue their quest of a second straight National Professional League championship.

They've got a long way to go yet, over a tough road, the game a week from Sunday being an encounter with Chicago's extremely tough Bears, but the Giants are headed in the right direction. At the moment they are deadlocked with the Washington Redskins for the Eastern division leadership. Each has won two games and they played to a tie against each other.

The Detroit Lions are out in front in the Western group with three victories, but are closely trailed by the Bears and Green Bay Packers, the latter two having won three and lost one.

In ranking the Giants as the No. 1 football team we don't need to go beyond the fact that they are the professional champions, which generally is accepted as proof of a team's preeminence, transcending anything that may occur on college gridirons. It seems to be agreed that the best college team could not lick the best pro team.

PROGRAMS FOR DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL BELLS ARE ANNOUNCED

Rites To Be Held Sunday At Lutheran

Barthelmas Gift Services To Be Elaborate During Day

Programs for the two services in Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday morning and evening marking the dedication of the Barthelmas Memorial Bells were announced Saturday by the Rev. G. L. Troutman, junior pastor.

The memorial bells were presented to the church by the Rev. Jacob Barthelmas, retired Lutheran pastor, South Court Street. They are in memory of his deceased wife, Amelia A. Barthelmas, his deceased mother, Barbara Barthelmas, and deceased mother-in-law, Lena Webbe. The bells were installed in the church tower this week.

The program for the 10:15 a. m. service includes "Prelude in F," by E. M. Read, played by Mrs. Karl Herrmann, organist; processional, "Holy, Holy, Holy;" introit and Gloria Patri; hymn "Come Christians and Join in This Vestal Song;" presentation of the bells to the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas by Robert Verdin, representative of Menely & Company and the I. T. Verdin Company;

Presentation of the bells to Trinity Lutheran Church by the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas; acceptance by Dr. G. J. Troutman, senior pastor of the church; dedication of the bells to the glory of the Triune God by Rev. G. J. Troutman, junior pastor; initial demonstration of the bells by D. D. Dowden, church secretary; hymn of dedication "Aloft in Yonder Belfry;" anthem "Praise Ye The Lord," by Neander, by the Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. G. L. Troutman; dedicatory sermon by Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University; solo "The Builders" by the Rev. Ellis Snyder, head of the voice department of Capital University; hymn "My Church, My Church;" Lords Prayer with the large bell tolling; anthem "My God and I;" a Latvian spiritual by the Junior Choir; announcements; benediction and doxology; recessional "Beautiful Savior" and the postlude "Dedication," a festival march by R. M. Stults. The junior choir is requested to be in their robes in the Parish House by 9:35 a. m. There are 59 youngsters in the choir.

New Robes Used
The Senior Choir, under the direction of Carl C. Leist, will make its first appearance in the new tailored robes at the evening service. One of the numbers of the choir will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ellis, a former director of the choir. He will hold a brief rehearsal with the choir at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The evening service will start at 7 o'clock. It includes the prelude

The Temptation of Jesus

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 15 is Matthew 4:1-11, Devotional Reading, Hebrews 2:11-18, the Golden Text being Hebrews 4:15, "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.")

LAST WEEK'S lesson ended where Jesus, after His baptism by John the Baptist, was taken by the Holy Spirit to the wilderness and there tempted by Satan. "For in that He himself hath suffered being tempted. He is able to succor them that are tempted."

Jesus stayed in the wilderness alone for forty days and forty nights, and in that time He had nothing to eat. Crafty Satan's first thought was that He would be so hungry He would succumb to the temptation to use His power to turn the stones about His feet into food. But when He suggested it Jesus answered him by saying: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Failing in his first attempt, Satan (meaning in Hebrew, "an adversary") next took Him into Jerusalem, the Holy City, and sitting Him on the very top pinnacle of the temple and said to Him, "If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, He shall give His angels charge over Thee: and in their hands they shall bear Thee up, lest at any

CALVARY EVANGELICAL TO OBSERVE RALLY RITES

Rally Day will be observed Sunday at 9 a. m. in Calvary Evangelical Church with a special service. The service will be a combined program with all departments represented.

Some of the special features of the service are a duet by the Coffland twins, illustrated story by Miss Miriam Weaver, song, "He Loves Me Too" by the primary department, address "The Gospel of Matthew" by the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, clarinet solo by Grant Carothers, "The Lesson for Today" by Ross Carothers and a duet by Cynth Milllions and Marjorie Kuhn.

The Rev. Mr. Ramsey hopes to have a 100 percent attendance for the Sunday School. A welcome is extended to all who have no Sunday School or church home.

"Meditation," by Edward Sturges, played by Mrs. Herrmann; processional "The Church's One Foundation;" introit "The Lord Bless You and Keep You;" Myrm "A Mighty Fortress is Our God;" by Bruno Huhn, by the Senior Choir, Carl C. Leist, director; remarks by the Rev. C. E. Krumm of McZena; the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas and Dr. Troutman; solo by Mr. Snyder; offertory, "Liebes-traume," by Mrs. Herrmann; Lord's Prayer with the large bell tolling; anthem "Sanctus;" by the Senior Choir; announcements; benediction and doxology; recessional "Savior, Again To Thy Dear Name We Raise," and postlude.

The selection, purchase and installation of the bells and ringers were under the supervision of a committee consisting of the Rev. and Dr. Troutman, Rev. Mr. Barthelmas, Mr. Dowden, John Walters, D. D. Good Mason Young, Roy Stout and Mason Klingensmith. Electric wiring was by the Fissell Electric Co.

time Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." Again Jesus answered quietly, "It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

Not Discouraged
Still not discouraged, the devil transported our Lord to a very high mountain, and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world spread out before them in all their glory. "All these things shall be Thine," said the tempter, "if Thou wilt fall down and worship me."

Then Jesus turned on him and said: "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

So Satan left Him and then the angels came and ministered to Him, for He "had been tempted like as we are, yet without sin," as our Golden Text says. He had undoubtedly spent the forty days and nights in meditation and prayer, and He may have been tempted in all this time, as is suggested in Mark and Luke, the three temptations being the climax of the ordeal.

Moses, you may remember, fasted for the same length of time, to avert the wrath of the Lord from the rebellious children of Israel. (Deut. 8:3.) Elijah, too, fleeing from the wrath of Queen Jezebel, ate food that the Lord sent, and then fasted forty days and forty nights.

Tempted Like Us

How could Jesus, the Son of God, be tempted "like as we are"? Well, He had become a man with a man's limitations and understanding, and if He had not been very wise He could easily have turned the stones into food to satisfy His hunger. But His miracles, if you remember, were all done when other people were involved, to help them.

If He had thrown Himself from the top of the temple and been unharmed, it would have made a great impression on the Jews who, Paul says, wanted signs and wonders. But it was not the wise way to win converts. And if He had compromised and bowed before the evil spirit to win the whole world, He might have gained the world temporarily, for evil is a powerful force, but He would not allow sin to help Him, or, in the end, He would have lost the world. He was trying to save.

All of us have temptations, and we, unlike Jesus, cannot always resist them. We fall, and then are sorry and ashamed. The Bible tells us that "He who ruleth his spirit is greater than he who taketh a city." Let us remember these temptations of our Lord's and His example will help us to meet and overcome our temptations.

"Blessed is the man that endureth: for when he is tried, he shall perceive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love Him." (James 1:12.)

PASTOR URGES COMMUNITY TO MAINTAIN LOYALTY

The Rev. C. F. Bowman, pastor of First Methodist Church, urges Circleville folk to not forget church loyalties on the Sundays before and after Pumpkin Show.

"The excitement of getting ready and not missing anything interferes with the church attendance on the Sunday before and then weariness works its depressing results on the Sunday after," the pastor explained.

"This community event does not intend to disrupt or hinder any of the community institutions, especially not the greatest institution of the land, namely, the Christian Church. May each Christian show that he is Christian and maintain his church loyalty on the Pumpkin Show Sundays."

21 LICK RUN LUTHERAN MEMBERS SET RECORDS

The Temptation of Jesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Baescher

Scripture—Matthew 4:1-11; Hebrews 2:11-18.

After fasting 40 days and 40 nights, Jesus was hungry, so the first suggestion Satan made was that He turn the stones into bread so He might eat.

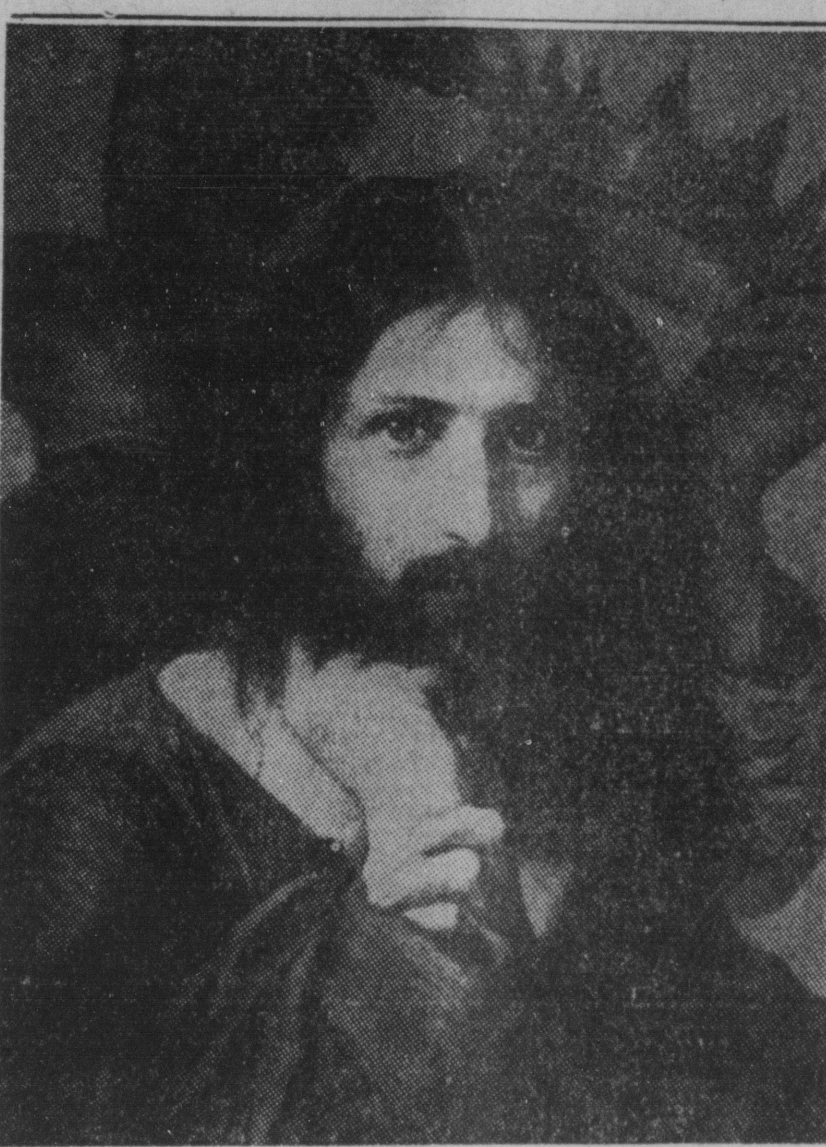

Then He was taken up into Jerusalem, seated on the pinnacle of the temple, and told to cast Himself down to see if the angels would save Him.

The Lord was next taken to the top of a very high mountain where He could see the world, and told that it should be His if He would worship Satan.

Jesus, having withstood all Satan's temptations, was left alone, and Angels ministered unto Him. GOLDEN TEXT—Hebrews 4:15

"For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin."—Hebrews 4:15.

PROGRAMS FOR DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL BELLS ARE ANNOUNCED

Rites To Be Held Sunday At Lutheran

Barthelmas Gift Services To Be Elaborate During Day

Programs for the two services in Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday morning and evening marking the dedication of the Barthelmas Memorial Bells were announced Saturday by the Rev. G. L. Troutman, junior pastor.

The memorial bells were presented to the church by the Rev. Jacob Barthelmas, retired Lutheran pastor, South Court Street. They are in memory of his deceased wife, Amelia A. Barthelmas, his deceased mother, Barbara Barthelmas, and deceased mother-in-law, Lena Webbe. The bells were installed in the church tower this week.

The program for the 10:15 a. m. service includes "Prelude in F," by E. M. Read, played by Mrs. Karl Herrmann, organist; processional, "Holy, Holy, Holy;" Introit and Gloria Patri; hymn "Come Christians and Join in This Vestal Song;" presentation of the bells to the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas by Robert Verdin, representative of Menely & Company and the I. T. Verdin Company;

Presentation of the bells to Trinity Lutheran Church by the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas; acceptance by Dr. G. J. Troutman, senior pastor of the church; dedication of the bells to the glory of the Triune God by Rev. G. J. Troutman, junior pastor; initial demonstration of the bells by D. D. Dowden, church secretary; hymn of dedication "Aloft in Yonder Belfry;" anthem "Praise Ye The Lord;" by Neander, by the Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. G. L. Troutman; dedicatory sermon by Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital University; solo "The Builders" by the Rev. Ellis Snyder, head of the voice department of Capital University; hymn "My Church, My Church;" Lords Prayer with the large bell tolling; anthem "My God and I" a Latvian spiritual by the Junior Choir; announcements; benediction and doxology; recessional "Beautiful Savior;" and the postlude "Dedication," a festival march by R. M. Stuits. The Junior choir is requested to be in their robes and in the Parish House by 9:35 a. m. There are 59 youngsters in the choir.

New Robes Used

The Senior Choir, under the direction of Carl C. Leist, will make its first appearance in the new tailored robes at the evening service. One of the numbers of the choir will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ellis, a former director of the choir. He will hold a brief rehearsal with the choir at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The evening service will start at 7 o'clock. It includes the prelude

The Temptation of Jesus

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 15 is Matthew 4:1-11, Devotional Reading, Hebrews 2:11-18, the Golden Text being Hebrews 4:15, "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.")

LAST WEEK'S lesson ended where Jesus, after His baptism by John the Baptist, was taken by the Holy Spirit to the wilderness and there tempted by Satan. "For in that He himself hath suffered being tempted, He is able to succor them that are tempted."

Jesus stayed in the wilderness alone for forty days and forty nights, and in that time He had nothing to eat. Crafty Satan's first thought was that He would be so hungry He would succumb to the temptation to use His power to turn the stones about His feet into food. But when he suggested it Jesus answered him by saying: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Falling in his first attempt, Satan (meaning in Hebrew, "an adversary") next took Him into Jerusalem, the Holy City, and sitting Him on the very top pinnacle of the temple and said to Him, "If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, He shall give His angels charge over Thee: and in their hands they shall bear Thee up, lest at any

CALVARY EVANGELICAL TO OBSERVE RALLY RITES

Rally Day will be observed Sunday at 9 a. m. in Calvary Evangelical Church with a special service. The service will be a combined program with all departments represented.

Some of the special features of the service are a duet by the Coffland twins, illustrated story by Miss Miriam Weaver, song, "He Loves Me Too" by the primary department, address "The Gospel of Matthew" by the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, clarinet solo by Grant Carothers, "The Lesson for Today" by Ross Carothers and a duet by Cynth Millrons and Marjorie Kuhn.

The Rev. Mr. Ramsey hopes to have a 100 percent attendance for the Sunday School. A welcome is extended to all who have no Sunday School or church home.

"Meditation," by Edward Sturges, played by Mrs. Herrmann; processional "The Church's One Foundation;" Introit "The Lord Bless You and Keep You;" Myrm "A Mighty Fortress is Our God;" by Bruno Huhn, by the Senior Choir, Carl C. Leist, director; remarks by the Rev. C. E. Krumm of McZena; the Rev. Mr. Barthelmas and Dr. Troutman; solo by Mr. Snyder; offertory, "Liebestraume," by Mrs. Herrmann; Lord's Prayer with the large bell tolling; anthem "Sanctus" by the Senior Choir; announcements; benediction and doxology; recessional "Savior, Again To Thy Dear Name We Raise," and postlude.

The selection, purchase and installation of the bells and ringers were under the supervision of a committee consisting of the Rev. and Dr. Troutman, Rev. Mr. Barthelmas, Mr. Dowden, John Walters D. D. Good Mason Young, Roy Stout and Mason Klingensmith. Electric wiring was by the Fissell Electric Co.

time Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." Again Jesus answered quietly, "It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

Not Discouraged
Still not discouraged, the devil transported our Lord to a very high mountain, and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world spread out before them in all their glory. "All these things shall be Thine," said the tempter, "if Thou wilt fall down and worship me."

Then Jesus turned on him and said: "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." So Satan left Him and then the angels came and ministered to Him, for He "had been tempted like as we are, yet without sin," as our Golden Text says. He had undoubtedly spent the forty days and nights in meditation and prayer, and He may have been tempted in all this time, as is suggested in Mark and Luke, the three temptations being the climax of the ordeal.

Moses, you may remember, fasted for the same length of time, to avert the wrath of the Lord from the rebellious children of Israel. (Deut. 8:3.) Elijah, too, fleeing from the wrath of Queen Jezebel, ate food that the Lord sent, and then fasted forty days and forty nights.

Tempted Like Us
How could Jesus, the Son of God, be tempted "like as we are"? Well, He had become a man with a man's limitations and understanding, and if He had not been very wise He could easily have turned the stones into food to satisfy His hunger. But His miracles, if you remember, were all done when other people were involved, to help them.

If He had thrown Himself from the top of the temple and been unhurt, it would have made a great impression on the Jews who, Paul says, wanted signs and wonders. But it was not the wise way to win converts. And if He had compromised and bowed before the evil spirit to win the whole world, He might have gained the world temporarily, for evil is a powerful force, but He would not allow sin to help Him, or, in the end, He would have lost the world He was trying to save.

All of us have temptations, and we, unlike Jesus, cannot always resist them. We fall, and then are sorry and ashamed. The Bible tells us that "He who ruleth his spirit is greater than he who taketh a city." Let us remember these temptations of our Lord's and His example will help us to meet and overcome our temptations.

"Blessed is the man that endureth: for when he is tried, he shall perceive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love Him." (James 1:12.)

PASTOR URGES COMMUNITY TO MAINTAIN LOYALTY

The Rev. C. F. Bowman, pastor of First Methodist Church, urges Circleville folk to not forget church loyalties on the Sundays before and after Pumpkin Show.

"The excitement of getting ready and not missing anything interferes with the church attendance on the Sunday before and then weariness works its depressing results on the Sunday after," the pastor explained.

"This community event does not intend to disrupt or hinder any of the community institutions, especially not the greatest institution of the land, namely, the Christian Church. May each Christian show that he is Christian and maintain his church loyalty on the Pumpkin Show Sundays."

21 LICK RUN LUTHERAN MEMBERS SET RECORDS

Twenty-one members of the Sunday School of Christ Church, Lick Run, had perfect attendance records for the last quarter, the Rev. G. L. Troutman, pastor, announced Saturday.

They are Harry Barthelmas, Charles Krimmel, George List, Jr., Bertha Krimmel, Lyle Davis, Helen Kern, Noah List, Ethel Davis, Mabel List, Mrs. Maggie List, Mrs. Harry Barthelmas, Mrs. George Kerns, Emma Trump, Mrs. Lester Ward, Jean Barthelmas, Rose Mary Barthelmas, Bobby List, George List, Mrs. Henry Rhoads, Miss Jenny Matz and Lester Ward.

The Temptation of Jesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 4:1-11; Hebrews 2:11-12.

After fasting 40 days and 40 nights, Jesus was hungry, so the first suggestion Satan made was that He turn the stones into bread so He might eat.

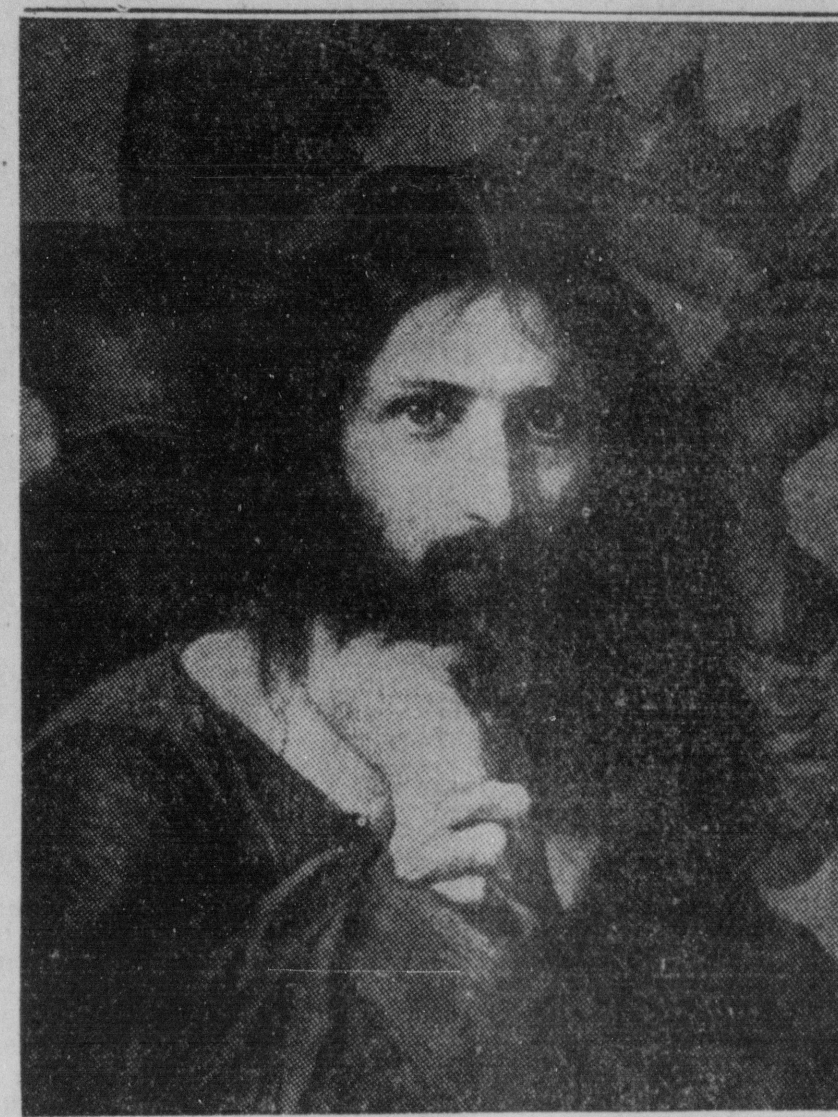

Then He was taken up into Jerusalem, seated on the pinnacle of the temple, and told to cast Himself down to see if the angels would save Him.

The Lord was next taken to the top of a very high mountain where He could see the world, and told that it should be His if He would worship Satan.

Jesus, having withstood all Satan's temptations, was left alone, and Angels ministered unto Him. GOLDEN TEXT—Hebrews 4:15

"For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin."—Hebrews 4:15.

"The Temptations Jesus Faced and How He Met Them" will be the subject for study in the Sunday School session in First Methodist Church Sunday. There were 295 present for the classes last Sunday. The Rev. C. F. Bowman, pastor, will preach at 10:30 a. m. on "Witnessing For Jesus." The choir under the direction of Mrs. James P. Moffitt will sing "Hear My Prayer," by Will James. Miss Alice Barton will sing "I Hear Thy Voice," arranged by Edith Lang.

"Be Ye Generous" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey for the worship hour in First Presbyterian Church Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Loren Pace will conduct the choir as it sings "Lord, For Thy Tender Mercies' Sake," by Rogers. "The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre," by Russell, "Nocturne," by Hoffmann, and "Recessional," by Nevin, will be the organ numbers to be played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke during the service.

The Rev. A. N. Gruesser, pastor of First United Brethren Church, will preach Sunday on the theme "Anchored Against the Storm." Charles Kirkpatrick will lead the choir in singing "Lord God and Father of Mankind," by John G. Whittier. Selections to be played by Miss Lucille May, organist, are the prelude "Improvisation," by Ashford; offertory "Idylle," by N. H. Caley, and postlude "Processional March," by Richard Krentzlin.

Henry Vanderlip of St. Andrew's Church, Washington C. H., will be in charge of the service in St. Philip's Church Sunday.

MEDICAL VICTORY
WHILE civilization seems to be ailing in many ways, especially in economics and international relations, it is making remarkable progress in the medical arts. This is true alike of surgery, drugs and the courses of living prescribed for patients.
Some of the most spectacular developments lately have been in the nature of what laymen are inclined to call "miracle drugs." The best known recent contributions of this sort, perhaps, are sulfanilamide and sulapyridine, used for various ailments for which there have been no satisfactory remedies.
The latest wonder-worker is a chemical bearing the terrific name of "hydroxyethylapocupreine" and obviously impossible for a layman to spell or pronounce. Its chief use so far has been for pneumonia, and in a Pittsburgh hospital where extensive tests have been made it is credited with reducing the mortality of such cases by one-half.

Such gains as these promise to increase the average span of life considerably beyond its present length. What remains then is to make the life itself more worth living.
That is a job outside the medical field, falling particularly on statesmen, economists, educators and pacifists.

UNFRIGHTENED YOUTH
THE helpless state of American youth, now that the unlimited opportunity of a new land supposedly has been exhausted, is the frequent topic of the pessimist and gloom-dispenser. Proof may be found, however, that American youth does not yet despair, and that his parents do not despair for him.
For one thing, there is the heavy enrollment in colleges, some of which report the biggest freshman classes in ten years. In the school year of 1929-30 there were fewer than 1,000,000 college students. As the present term begins there seem to be 1,600,000 of them.
Perhaps the pessimists will shake their heads and say this means only an increase later in the army of college-trained unemployed. It may be doubted that the young people in question look at it in that light. They have purpose, as well as youth, hope and courage. They know what they want, and it may turn out that they know how to get it.

World At A Glance

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER of Kansas is about as effective a pacifist as this country has. Paradoxical as it may seem, the average pacifist is almost too bellicose in his passion for peace. Take congress, for instance. Of course, there isn't any pro-war bloc on Capitol Hill, but some of the lawmakers are more violently pacifistic than others, and the members of the extremely ultra group in general are so vehement that they arouse a certain amount of antagonism among legislators who don't feel quite as strongly as the 200 percenters do.
Pacifistic organizations outside the congressional ranks incline to be pretty strenuous, too.
Illustratively, on the even of the senate's neutrality debate, delegations of these folk besieged the senators' office building in swarms, to demand retention of our arms embargo. They were so belligerent that the Capitol police had to take extra precautions to save a senator or two from being mobbed.
Maybe the cops were not unduly careful, either. It's to be recalled that, during the last World War, an enthusiastic pacifist called on the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr., to convince the latter of the undesirability of American participation in the strife, and finding the senator less responsive than he'd hoped, smote him sorely, on the nose.
The Capitol building itself is extra-patrolled, lest demonstrators muss up its architecture to call attention to their cause. They

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

WELLES FOR ACHIEVEMENT
WASHINGTON—Roosevelt calls them "Good Neighbors". But getting any unanimity of friendship from the 21 republics of Pan-America is like calling a truce among debutantes, dowagers and other swirlers in Washington's fast-moving social set. It is next to impossible.
Therefore, when an American diplomat can bring back from the Pan-American Conference just closed in Panama a definite and far-reaching neutrality agreement, it can be chalked up as an achievement-plus.

For Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, this was not a new victory—except in one respect. For seven years he has been doing the spade work for Pan-American conferences. He plowed the field where his chief, Cordell Hull, reaped. But previously Welles stayed in the background, and this was the first occasion on which he, himself, headed the American delegation to an important conference and steered the course single-handed.

Today the chief international objects of the Roosevelt Administration are (1) to stay out of war, and (2) to cement the relations between the United States and Latin America.

This was Welles' mission at Panama. In fact, it has been his mission ever since he joined the New Deal. For it was he who first coined the phrase "Good Neighbor" in a speech which he wrote for his chief in the White House.

SECRETARIES VS. UNDER SECRETARIES
Secretary Hull and Under Secretary Welles are a unique couple. Hull is slow, cautious, draws out his sentences with a homely Tennessee accent. Welles is quick, imaginative, not afraid to probe a difficult situation, bites out his conversation with an incisive Harvard accent.
The two supplement each other beautifully.

Washington under the New Deal has become noted for its inner department quarrels. Frequently they occur between Cabinet members and their under secretaries. Henry Morgenthau, for instance, has tried out a whole row of under secretaries. Harold Ickes fired his chief subordinate, Charley West; Ed McGrady could not get along with Miss Perkins; and the Commerce Department has seen several under secretaries come and go.

Hull and Welles are no exception. It is no secret that the old gentleman sometimes chafes at the rapid-fire decisions of his subordinate. But on the whole they ences of opinion on the neutrality issue.

Senators Nye and Capper submit that, if we don't sell arms to any belligerent at all, that's neutrality. But Chairman Pittman and Bloom of the senate and house foreign relations committees say it isn't because, if we sold arms indiscriminately, anybody could come here and get 'em. That is, England and France could, but Germany couldn't since Germany's effectively blockaded. Accordingly, if we embargo everybody, we're discriminating in favor of Germany. You're entitled to look at it either way.
Then there's the item of credits. When the last war ended England and France, among several countries, owed us billions, which they never have paid. Senator Johnson of California got a law passed prohibiting any further American loans to our defaulting debtors. Now it's proposed, despite this law, to give today's belligerents 90 days per purchase to pay for whatever arms they may buy from us. If we stand pat on the Johnson law, says Senator Pittman, we discriminate in Germany's favor, inasmuch as Germany isn't one of our defaulters and England and France are. Advocates of this concession maintain that such a 90-day allowance isn't a debt, but a customary commercial accommodation. It's a trifle too technical a point for the ordinary non-commercial intelligence to consider understandingly, but no doubt it has its merits.
Anyway, Senator Capper listens to these arguments and dissents non-quarrelsomely. It's unusual in a pacifist.

Dr. Paul's eyes glanced briefly into each face. "A shock," he pronounced in a hard, cold voice. Even his healing instincts were in obedience, frozen at their source by the disgusting tantrum to which Miss Ivy had subjected us.

When Neal returned with his doctor's case, the two physicians again bent over the stricken figure. Again they conferred; then Neal spoke:

"Jossie, will you go with Duncan and Bruce and get the cotbed from the storeroom. We want to use it for a stretcher. It will be best to take Miss Ivy home at once. It will not harm her, covered warmly from the damp and, frankly, I prefer that she should be in her own home under the care of her own doctor. She has Dr. Willis, doesn't she?" He spoke to Alan, who had stood self-consciously watching them work over the termagant he had escorted to Hill House.

"Yes," Alan frankly mopped his forehead. "I've something to say," he announced, looking with honest-ly approving eyes at Neal. "Maybe I shouldn't, but I'm going to say it, anyway. It's this. I've never seen anything finer than the way you've worked over her after what she said and the way she acted. My hat's off to you." He looked Neal squarely in the eyes as he spoke.

Back of me I heard Captain Lancy utter a low: "Hear, hear!" Neal gave Alan a half smile, but laid his hand for an instant on the broad shoulder before him. I knew by his words that he hadn't missed Alan's shouted apology.

"Thanks, Murray. A doctor should consider the human rather than the individual, you know. I believe you'd do the same." It was an amende honorable, and as such Alan accepted it.

"Sally, will you go to the office and telephone for Dr. Willis? An emergency call. Don't bother about his number. Ask him to come to Miss Ivy's house as quickly as he can make it. Chief Forrest, will you have two of your men carry her home? Paul, you needn't go, just give Alan your flashlight."

Definitely the two doctors arranged the unconscious figure, well wrapped in blankets, upon the cot-stretcher. The two officers picked up their burden and, with Alan showing the way, carried Miss Ivy home from her first visit to Hill House in many years.

Silently we watched and, as the door closed behind them, the sense of horror and strain which had been absent since Miss Ivy suffered her swift seizure, returned to us all. Before either Captain Lancy or Chief Forrest could speak, Coral

MEDICAL VICTORY

WHILE civilization seems to be ailing in many ways, especially in economics and international relations, it is making remarkable progress in the medical arts. This is true alike of surgery, drugs and the courses of living prescribed for patients.

Some of the most spectacular developments lately have been in the nature of what laymen are inclined to call "miracle drugs." The best known recent contributions of this sort, perhaps, are sulfanilamide and sulfaapyridine, used for various ailments for which there have been no satisfactory remedies.

The latest wonder-worker is a chemical bearing the terrific name of "hydroxy-ethylapocuprene" and obviously impossible for a layman to spell or pronounce. Its chief use so far has been for pneumonia, and in a Pittsburgh hospital where extensive tests have been made it is credited with reducing the mortality of such cases by one-half.

Such gains as these promise to increase the average span of life considerably beyond its present length. What remains then is to make the life itself more worth living.

That is a job outside the medical field, falling particularly on statesmen, economists, educators and pacifists.

UNFRIGHTENED YOUTH

THE helpless state of American youth, now that the unlimited opportunity of a new land supposedly has been exhausted, is the frequent topic of the pessimist and gloom-dispenser. Proof may be found, however, that American youth does not yet despair, and that his parents do not despair for him.

For one thing, there is the heavy enrollment in colleges, some of which report the biggest freshman classes in ten years. In the school year of 1929-30 there were fewer than 1,000,000 college students. As the present term begins there seem to be 1,600,000 of them.

Perhaps the pessimists will shake their heads and say this means only an increase later in the army of college-trained unemployed. It may be doubted that the young people in question look at it in that light. They have purpose, as well as youth, hope and courage. They know what they want, and it may turn out that they know how to get it.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER of Kansas is about as effective a pacifist as this country has. Paradoxical as it may seem, the average pacifist is almost too bellicose in his passion for peace. Take congress, for instance. Of course, there isn't any pro-war bloc on Capitol Hill, but some of the lawmakers are more violently pacifistic than others, and the members of the extremely ultra group in general are so vehement that they arouse a certain amount of antagonism among legislators who don't feel quite as strongly as the 200 percenters do.

Pacifistic organizations outside the congressional ranks incline to be pretty strenuous, too.

Illustratively, on the even of the senate's neutrality debate, delegations of these folk besieged the solons' office building in swarms, to demand retention of our arms embargo. They were so belligerent that the Capitol police had to take extra precautions to save a senator or two from being mobbed.

Maybe the cops were not unduly careful, either. It's to be recalled that, during the last World War, an enthusiastic pacifist called on the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr., to convince the latter of the undesirability of American participation in the strife, and finding the senator less responsive than he'd hoped, smote him sorely on the nose.

The Capitol building itself is extra-patrolled, lest demonstrators muss up its architecture to call attention to their cause. They did it the last time, with considerable resultant damage.

SENATOR CAPPER'S REASONING

Senator Capper, though, while as good a pacifist as the best of them, is thoroughly rational. Rather than fighting for peace, he evangelizes for it. He talks convincingly, but his language is temperate. If he thinks that a fellow senator isn't quite as pro-peace as he'd like him to be, he doesn't assume that his associate is a war-monger; he tried to convert him, not to tear off his scalp.

There's a deal of argument for American military preparation, to keep us out of war. This is all right with Senator Capper, but he wants to be darned sure that the preparatory program isn't ultimately (and perhaps sub-consciously) contemplative of getting Uncle Sam into war later.

Senator Nye's the upper congressional chamber's outstanding neutralist. Other senators are just as neutral as he is. Senator Capper's one of 'em. But Nye invented our neutrality law, which makes him conspicuous.

Well, Nye and Capper agree. They're an interesting pair. Nye comparatively is young. If we get into this war, probably he'll be alive to experience its subsequent unpleasantness—a wrecked world, including America. He has personal reasons for disliking the prospect. Capper's a very old man. Personally, he's disinterested. He's just using his best judgment for posterity. For himself, he won't be here.

HONEST DIFFERENCES

There's room for honest differences of opinion on the neutrality issue.

Senators Nye and Capper submit that, if we don't sell arms to any belligerent at all, that's neutrality. But Chairman Pittman and Bloom of the senate and house foreign relations committees say it isn't because, if we sold arms indiscriminately, anybody could come here and get 'em. That is, England and France could, but Germany couldn't since Germany's effectively blockaded. Accordingly, if we embargo everybody, we're discriminating in favor of Germany. You're entitled to look at it either way.

Then there's the item of credits. When the last war ended England and France, among several countries, owed us billions, which they never have paid. Senator Johnson of California got a law passed prohibiting any further American loans to our defaulting debtors. Now it's proposed, despite this law, to give today's belligerents 90 days per purchase to pay for whatever arms they may buy from us. If we stand pat on the Johnson law, says Senator Pittman, we discriminate in Germany's favor, inasmuch as Germany isn't one of our defaulters and England and France are. Advocates of this concession maintain that such a 90-day allowance isn't a debt, but a customary commercial accommodation. It's a trifle too technical a point for the ordinary non-commercial intelligence to consider understandingly, but no doubt it has its merits.

Anyway, Senator Capper listens to these arguments and dissents non-quarrelously. It's unusual in a pacifist.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

WELLES FOR ACHIEVEMENT

WASHINGTON—Roosevelt calls them "Good Neighbors". But getting any unanimity of friendship from the 21 republics of Pan-America is like calling a truce among debutantes, dowagers and other swirlers in Washington's fast-moving social set. It is next to impossible.

Therefore, when an American diplomat can bring back from the Pan-American Conference just closed in Panama a definite and far-reaching neutrality agreement, it can be chalked up as an achievement-plus.

For Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, this was not a new victory—except in one respect. For seven years he has been doing the spade work for Pan-American conferences. He plowed the field where his chief, Cordell Hull, reaped. But previously Welles stayed in the background, and this was the first occasion on which he, himself, headed the American delegation to an important conference and steered the course single-handed.

Today the chief international objects of the Roosevelt Administration are (1) to stay out of war, and (2) to cement the relations between the United States and Latin America.

This was Welles' mission at Panama. In fact, it has been his mission ever since he joined the New Deal. For it was he who first coined the phrase "Good Neighbor" in a speech which he wrote for his chief in the White House.

SECRETARIES VS. UNDER SECRETARIES

Secretary Hull and Under Secretary Welles are a unique couple. Hull is slow, cautious, draws out his sentences with a homely Tennessee accent. Welles is quick, imaginative, not afraid to probe a difficult situation, bites out his conversation with an incisive Harvard accent.

The two supplement each other beautifully.

Washington under the New Deal has become noted for its inner department quarrels. Frequently they occur between Cabinet members and their under secretaries. Henry Morgenthau, for instance, has tried out a whole row of under secretaries. Harold Ickes fired his chief subordinate, Charley West; Ed McGrady could not get along with Miss Perkins; and the Commerce Department has seen several under secretaries come and go.

Hull and Welles are no exception. It is no secret that the old gentleman sometimes chafes at the rapid-fire decisions of his subordinate. But on the whole they look. Absorbed as I was in a world where there were no wars, no corrupt WPA administrators, no hemorrhages, I inadvertently stepped from the curb just in time to be grazed by a couple of young hoodlums who swerved around the corner in a top-down runabout. I could hear them laughing, as they drove away, at the old man who was suddenly brought back to the Machine Age. I scuttled home to my club.

The next night I went to the movies, and under a summer moon I strolled back along the bookstore street. When I got to the club, I found the doors locked though it was only 11 o'clock. When the door-man came, I expressed surprise at so early a closing. He explained that there had been so many hold-ups, robberies and sluggings nearby, it was thought best. I asked him on what street these holdups took place, and he designated the very street through which I had just strolled. After I got to bed I counted seven ambulance sirens screaming up or down some nearby street, and I said to myself, "There, but for the grace of God, they go for me."

So the next night I tucked myself in early with the reflection that there, at least, I was safe. Then the uncomfortable thought occurred to me that statistics prove that more people die in bed than in automobiles. I was, as a matter of fact, surrounded by some of the most dangerous devices which the ingenuity of man has devised. I could slip in the bathtub. I could scald myself with hot running water. I could get tangled up with the electric fan. I could electrocute myself in the bathtub with the electric razor. I could fall out the window. I could set my bed on fire from my cigar and risk cremation in vivo, as has happened not once, but twice, to one of my most distinguished and intellectual friends.

Home Toll Heavy

Almost as many people in North America are accidentally killed in the supposed safety of their own homes as in the streets, in automobiles, in the air above, in the water, down under the earth, and in all the factories.

To be exact, there are about 28,000 accidental deaths in homes per annum.

Autumn being the beginning of shut-in-time, remember these things: Be sure the garage door is open before you start the auto engine. Don't go into the cellar without light or support. Falls exacted a toll of 11,900 lives in 1930.

Guard against fires. Burns, scalds and explosions kill about 6,000 North Americans annually. There have been classified 19 kinds of fires; of them 11 occur in homes. Children playing with matches, gasoline used for cleaning, clothing ignited from stoves, gasoline or kerosene used to start fires, asphyxiation by smoke—are some of them.

Shadow Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Peake, proprietor of Hill House, New England summer resort, is found murdered by the "spite fence" erected near her property by her estranged sister, Miss Ivy Newcomb. Previous to the murder the guests had been concerned about the poisoning of one of their number, Mrs. Rutherford, who recovered; strange sounds of a prowler on the property, and the ransacking of one of the rooms. The attack at Hill House, besides Dr. Neal and Josie Peake, children of the dead woman, are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé Duncan; Dr. Paul and Pauline Rutherford, children of Mrs. Rutherford; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton and Joseph Barry. Josie is friendly with Alan Murray, who lives at Miss Ivy's, and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Coral Easton, for whom Josie has no use. The police begin their investigation. The police chief enlists the aid of Miss Gordon, then introduces Captain Lancy, well-known detective, who has been called in to take charge of the case. As Captain Lancy begins to question all of those at Hill House, Miss Ivy pays a surprise visit.

CHAPTER TWENTY

WHEN THAT door swung back revealing Miss Ivy Newcomb, we sat as though stunned by the sight. But when she stepped over the sill, Neal sprang to his feet.

"How dare you come here?" he shouted. "You killed my mother, I know you did." He was shaking so that he could hardly stand, as he hurled his accusation at her.

Chief Forrest stepped forward and grasped his arm. "Neal, Neal, my boy," he said soothingly, "give us time to find out why she is here. If she killed your mother, I promise you that we'll—"

Miss Ivy Newcomb did not give him time to finish. "A fine reception," she snorted, "but no different than I expected from those upstarts." Her eyes flashed from Neal to Josie, with malignant hatred.

"I've just learned that my sister is dead. If that is true, this house belongs to me, and I want this unholy crew out of it within ten minutes. Within ten minutes, I say." Her voice trembled with rage, as she shook her fist at us all.

I piled Alan Murray. He was deeply white and he tried in vain to stop her words. He raised his own voice, almost to a shout in his endeavor to be heard. "I wouldn't have come with her if I didn't know what she was going to say." Over the heads of the rest his eyes besought Josie's understanding.

Josie was on her feet. Even in her righteous wrath she flashed him a smile beautiful in its acceptance of his words. Her voice was cold, every word fell distinctly on the surprised ears of her hearers.

"For your information, Miss Newcomb," she said with a sarcastic infection, "I will tell you that Hill House and all it contains is mine. Mine! Do you understand that?"

"It's a lie," shrieked Miss Ivy, and to my utter astonishment I heard Coral Easton's angry voice.

"That's not so," she cried. "This house is Neal's."

Chief Forrest dropped Neal's arm and strode toward Miss Ivy. "Whether this house belongs to you or not is a matter which will be settled later. The police are in charge here now and everyone here will stay here until we release them."

"I don't care a hang for you and your police officers, Ben Forrest," yelled Miss Ivy. "This is my house and here I'm going to stay."

As lightly as a bird, Josie moved across the floor until she stood by Chief Forrest's side. "Chief Forrest, it is an insult to my mother for that woman even to be here. I am depending upon you to send her away." With her brown head held proudly erect, she faced Miss Ivy, and the scorn in her glance drove the woman to greater passions.

She crooked her skinny hands into horrible semblance of an animal's claw and swooped forward as if she would tear Josie's eyes from her face.

Chief Forrest's stout arm interposed to hold her back, but it was not needed.

"You—you—yo—" Her voice, starting in a furious shriek, died away in muttering which came from a sadly twisted face as she fell forward.

Dr. Paul was at Chief Forrest's side, as he caught the slight figure. Gently they laid her on one of the davenport. All else was forgotten in the sudden attack which had overwhelmed her.

"Neal!" Dr. Paul's voice was

It will not harm her, covered warmly from the damp and, frankly, I prefer that she should be in her own home under the care of her own doctor. She has Dr. Willis, doesn't she?" He spoke to Alan, who had stood self-consciously watching them work over the termagant he had escorted to Hill House.

"Yes," Alan frankly mopped his forehead. "I've something to say," he announced, looking with honest approval eyes at Neal. "Maybe I shouldn't, but I'm going to say it, anyway. It's this. I've never seen anything finer than the way you've worked over her after what she said and the way she acted. My hat's off to you." He looked Neal squarely in the eyes as he spoke.

Back of me I heard Captain Lancy utter a low "Hear, hear!" Neal gave Alan a half smile, but laid his hand for an instant on the broad shoulder before him. I knew by his words that he hadn't missed Alan's shouted apology.

Easton stepped up to Josie. "I want to know what you meant by telling that woman that Hill House is yours. It is Neal's, and you know it."

On Josie's face a contemptuous expression appeared. "I said exactly what I meant and what I know to be true," she flung back at her, "as you will find if you wait long enough."

"Then it's all your fault," Coral screamed at her. "You can't tell me your mother would—"

"Miss Easton," a heavy hand fell unceremoniously upon her shoulder. "We have had enough outrageous scenes here. This is a house of mourning. One more word out of you and I'll send you to spend the night in the town jail."

Coral flung back her head and opened her lips to reply, but the sight of Chief Forrest's angry countenance was too much for her. Her head drooped and she went back to her seat on the davenport, where Joseph Barry fussed with pillows to make her comfortable.

"Mr. Barry," Captain Lancy's stern voice startled Barry so that the pillow he was placing behind Coral's head rolled to the floor. "We will resume where we left off. I asked you if you knew of Miss Easton's engagement?"

"How could he?" interrupted Coral impudently. "I didn't know it, myself, until just the other day."

"What day, to be exact?" smoothly inquired Lancy.

Coral glanced at Neal. He wasn't even looking her way. I'd hate to be engaged to a man as indifferent as he appeared to be.

"Day before yesterday," she muttered sullenly, seeing that Neal had no intention of helping her out.

"Please give your name and explanation for being here?" Captain Lancy's voice had resumed its earlier courtesy.

"Duncan Abbott. I came here for a vacation last summer. Met Miss Dutton here and we returned together this year. We are to be married this fall."

Captain Lancy turned with an approving smile to Rhoda. "You, I believe, are Miss Dutton."

"I am."

"And you?" He was looking at me.

"Sally Gordon. I—" I intended to give him my reason for being at Hill House, but he interrupted me. "Where are you from?"

"Albany, New York."

"You came here by automobile yesterday?"

"Yes."

"When did you leave Albany?"

"Yesterday morning."

"If that is true, what were you doing ten miles the other side of Winnetum at four-twenty yesterday afternoon?"

Today's Horoscope

The year just commencing will prove favorable for those who today are celebrating their birthdays. Their business prospects are good, and they may inherit a legacy. A child born on this date will be clever, with a sharp intellect, but rather over-critical and hard to please and understand.

Hints on Etiquette

Be trustworthy. No one trusts the man or woman who cannot keep a secret.

Horoscope for Sunday

If your birthday is today, you may look for improved health in the year to come, and to the advent of a stranger who will befriend you. You should be careful in your dealings with those older than yourself, however. The child born today will be very clever and intuitive, but desires and temper will be much in need of control. Such a child will possess some artistic or musical ability.

"Let Freedom Ring!" was the theme of the stirring address of Mrs. Geline MacDonell Bowman, guest speaker Friday at the annual Public Affairs dinner of the business and Professional Women's Club at the St. Philip's parish house. Stressing in every phrase of her discussion the need for preserving democracy, she showed graphically the place the business woman of this country has won for herself through years of constant effort. She showed what democracy means to us and to the world, and spoke at length on the two theories, the state exists for the individual and the individual exists for the state. She contrasted democracy as we know the term in America with communism, Nazism and Fascism, the three basically the same, but trying to hide the real iron rule of dictatorship under a thin mantle of democracy. She said that democracy was a slow process, based on women's attitude toward life.

Having traveled extensively in Europe, she had first hand information in regard to political affairs and the position women occupy in the various countries. Throughout the world, she said, where educational standards are highest, woman's position is highest. Protection of women is against their progress.

Beginning with the time of her grandmother, she traced the progress of women in education, politics, business and the professions to the present time. How not to "let freedom ring," she said, was for keep women out of public affairs, for a joint responsibility of men and women is the solution of problems of human beings.

She stated that women had not taken advantage of their opportunities. She said that they should give more thought to the saving of democracy, should make it the first interest of life. She urged them to shake off apathy, give more to public life of town, state and nation, "for freedom, the most precious thing in life, lives only in democracy."

Mrs. Bowman, past president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, lives in Richmond, Va., where, in addition to being a housewife and the mother of twins, a son and daughter, she heads her own direct mail advertising business. From her background of experience as national president, she told of the growth of the federation from national to international. As this week marks 100 years of women in business, she traced their progress through this time from seven occupied fields at the beginning to 501 at the present time.

Conforming to a request of the Circleville club, Mrs. Bowman at the close of her talk explained the figures on the club emblem.

The guests for the annual banquet included the heads of various civic organizations, historical societies and women's clubs of Circleville. Among these were the Rev. L. C. Sherburne, head of the Ministerial Association; J. I. Smith, Jr., president of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce; Charles H. May, president of the board of education; William E. Radcliff, president of Rotary; Virgil M. Cress, president of Kiwanis Club; Mrs. W. T. Elm, Circleville Benevolent Association; Mrs. Ray Davis, president of Monday Club; Mrs. G. D. ## GARDEN-GRAPH

Certain bulbs and perennials, including Sweet William, candytuft and Madonna lilies, carry their evergreen foliage over winter, but these plants need to have their foliage protected with a light covering of straw, excelsior or hay.

Another group of perennials, including foxgloves, campanulas and delphinium, are sensitive to water standing around their crowns. In other words, they hate "wet feet." A method of preventing this condition is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Scrape away a half inch of soil around each plant, then fill up the plant with coal ashes or sand, as illustrated.

This procedure prevents water from standing about the crown of the plant and assures adequate surface drainage. After the ground has frozen over, a mulch of ing small dresses to be sent to the Mary Holmes missionary school.

Miss Bertha Bowers, president, led the business meeting which opened at 2 p. m. Mrs. J. B. Stevenson was in charge of the devotional period which was devoted to the study of stewardship.

Mrs. Replogle played musical interludes between the scenes of the play.

Morris Chapel Aid

Mrs. James Pierce and Mrs. Olen Schooley were joint hostesses to the members of Morris Chapel Aid Society Thursday at the Pierce home, Pickaway Township.

Mrs. Albert Musselman, president, led the session which opened with group singing followed by the recitation of the favorite scripture verses of each member.

Prayer by Mrs. Roy England was followed by a reading by Mrs. Joe Anderson and a vocal solo by Mrs. Jacob Glitt. The secretary's report and roll call followed. Mrs. Pierce played a piano solo. Group singing and prayer by Mrs. John Chalfin closed the session.

Several enjoyable contests were in charge of Mrs. V. D. Kerns. The hostesses served lunch at the close of the afternoon. The November hostesses include Mrs. Lyman Riffel and Mrs. Charles Mowery, both of Pickaway Township. The place of meeting will be announced later.

TO CIRCLEVILLIANS

Did you see the C. H. S.-Greenfield football game? If so you saw and heard the Circleville high school band. At present the band is in dire need of uniforms. Several civic organizations of the city have funds for this purpose. Don't you think that uniforms would help the appearance of your high school band?

Charles F. Zaenglein, band instructor has stated that at present the band has many talented pupils and that the oncoming members are very promising.

Why not get behind your band and give it a boost by supporting all campaigns to raise funds for new uniforms?

RESERVES PLAN INITIATION WED.

Plans were made Wednesday for the Senior Girl Reserve initiation, which will be held Wednesday evening, October 25, from five until eight o'clock. At that time six new girls will be taken into the club. These girls are Elmina Morrison, Stella Mae Skinner, Lena Mae Webbe, Grace Wagner, Doris Waters, and Norma Jean Wolfe.

This year the club voted to dispense with any kind of informal initiation. A formal ceremony will be planned by the cabinet with the help of a ceremonial committee composed of Barbara Johnson, chairman, Ruth Gard, and Rose Anne Griner.

Mary Kathryn Pile, chairman, Peggy Goeller, Goldie Isaac, and Martha Mavis will be in charge of food preparation.

Mary Fickhardt is in charge of the clean-up squad, with Norma Brown, Imogene Justice, and Bernice Strawser as her helpers.

During the meeting it was decided that the club will collect sales tax stamps and use the proceeds for charity. Club members are requested to bring their stamps to Betty Sapp every Wednesday.

Senior Girl Reserves, along with other school organizations, will march in uniform in the school parade at Pumpkin Show. Both the Junior and Senior Girl Reserves intend to march in triangular formation, as the triangle is one of the symbols of the organization.

RESERVES HOLD SECOND MEETING

Monday the Junior Girl Reserves held their second meeting of the year. At this meeting the program for the year was read and the club decided to have the program printed in booklet form.

A wiener roast was planned for Monday, October 16, instead of the regular meeting. Any business will be discussed at the wiener roast. Committees for the hike are: firebuilding: Viola Arledge, chairman, Florence Dresbach, and Martha Pile; location: Betty Moeller, chairman, Jeanne Manson, and Nell Jean Moore.

All girls are requested to meet at five o'clock in front of the high school.

This year is the first year that Circleville High School will be represented in the Pumpkin Show. In the high school parade the Junior Girl Reserves will march in their uniforms of a blue skirt and white shirt.

DISCUSSION HELD IN CIVICS CLASS

Wednesday in sixth period social civics class, Lloyd Jones and Paul Turner held a debate on the subject: "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt a Plan of Complete Isolation." Lloyd upheld the negative, and Paul the affirmative.

Leland Siegwald, chairman, announced that the affirmative presented the better arguments and the victory should go to that side. Following the debate there was a general class discussion of the subject. The class, however, favored the points presented by the negative.

Pupils were excused from fifteen minutes of their fourth period classes and twenty minutes of their sixth period classes, Wednesday, to make adjustments in their yearly schedules.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is Fire Prevention Week, and people are to become fire-conscious for at least a week.

Firemen have asked the support of the citizens of the United States in helping them to keep down the number of fires in this country. Each of the teachers in grades one through twelve has given a talk or program on fire prevention during this week. They have also discussed the subject in their English and reading classes.

Folks, have you noticed the one-man cheering section immediately behind the bench at the football games? More noise and advice and encouragement emanates from this "one-man gang" than from any other given section in the stands. Dan McClain is "its" name and do we appreciate him? We should say so. Thanks Dan, lots more of the same.

MAGAZINE SALES CONTINUE

Until the magazine company's representative, Jim Gaffner, returns, the junior class magazine contest will continue. Although the class has fallen short of its goal so far, the team captains term the contest "fairly successful."

TURNER CHOSEN E. M. S. PRESIDENT

Tuesday evening, at 3:45 the E. M. S. held a special meeting for the purpose of electing officers, planning the year's program, and preparing an initiation of new members.

Paul Turner was elected president of the club for the '39-'40 school year; Norma Jean Brown, vice president; and Rose Anne Griner, secretary-treasurer. Miss Margaret Rooney, club adviser, conducted the elections after which the new president took charge.

A new plan for preparation of programs was drawn up. The club will be divided into small committees composed of from three to six members who are interested in different forms of literary expression. Members and divisions are as follows: drama—Lloyd Jones, chairman, William Burgett, Dorothy Cook, Pollyanna Friedman; poetry—Marvyn Henness, chairman, Helen Beck, Norma Jean Brown, Rose Anne Griner, Lois Madison, and Mary Adele Snider; fiction—Norma Jean Starkey, chairman, Lois Johnson, Bernice Strawser; biography—Mary Adele Snider, chairman, Rose Anne Griner; essays—Paul Turner, chairman. The people on all these committees volunteered.

After this part of the business had been completed, the drama committee was asked to present the program at the next meeting. The prospective members were then dismissed, and plans for the initiation were discussed. Paul Turner appointed the following committees to arrange for the event. Mary Adele Snider is in charge of the initiation committee. As her aides she will have Helen Beck, Pollyanna Friedman, and Bernice Strawser. Norma Jean Brown and Rose Anne Griner are in charge of food preparation.

What Is The Difference

Last week we were 428 students with very few things in common. This week we are a student body with a single common purpose. Last week our heads drooped when folks from other towns mentioned our school or its athletic teams. This week we are proud to be students of this high school and very proud of our football team. Why have we changed? Why are we no longer the meek, docile, student body we were before? Can it be that winning one football game has given us a new perspective on life and made tomatoes of some of us who were mice?

The answer to that last question I believe to be a loud and raucous positive. Winning at anything does something to anyone. It picks up the spirit, it pushes the chest out, and the chin up. It quickens the stride and creates a gleam in the eye.

Now how to keep and improve this grand and glorious feeling.

First I should say that an improvement in our attitude around the school is one thing that would increase and improve our newfound oneness of spirit. Do not resent the authority of those placed over us to guide and help us. The administration and the faculty, to be successful themselves, must first see us succeed. Let us cooperate and work with the teachers instead of trying to pull the other way.

We will be better satisfied and in the end we will be far ahead if we do as they want us to and not as we foolishly desire.

Next, let us get on the books and improve our scholastic record. Our scholastic records are far from atrocious, but they can stand improvement. It is our school, but our records are our own. These records stay with us for life and go a long way toward forming our characters and determining what we shall do. So it is up to us to improve ourselves.

How many of us know the meaning of the word altruism? It is one of the nicest words I know. To me its meaning is grace, culture, and kindness—all in one. It means regard for others. We students are mighty, mighty careless about our respect for the rights of others. Many students here are kind and considerate, but once in a while some one oversteps the bounds of good taste and injures the feelings of some of his friends, classmates, or teachers for no apparent cause. Let us guard again such a thing. There is no occasion for this if we only observe the golden rule of Elbert Hubbard, "Do unto others as though you were the others."

Now for our winning athletic teams. They don't come without a great deal of work and attention. Knowledge of the game, fundamentals, spirit, and team morale all play their parts. The boys who play the game should be the first to be considered. They should not smoke, drink, stay up late, or eat between meals. They know this and we all should help them remember it. They represent us and we want to be well represented.

When we see the boys doing something they shouldn't a gentle reminder will help them replace the bad habit with a good one. Keep the minds of the boys on football. Show them how much we believe in them and want them to win, and they will.

It is my belief that a combination of these things will increase our spirit and improve our school. To a degree that will keep our team winning, and our self respect and respect for others at a very high level. I think it is worth a real trial, don't you?

FORMER TEACHER VISITS

Mrs. Robert Cassil, nee Margaret Brennan, was a visitor in Circleville high school Monday. Mrs. Cassil, a former teacher in Circleville public schools, is now living in Logan, Ohio. She was the guest of Miss Elma Rains for several days this week and visited classes in various school buildings.

TWELVE PUPILS RECEIVE TOKENS FOR GOOD WORK

This week twelve members of the Circleville High band were given band letters. These are Gerald Ayers, Glenn Barnhart, William Burgett, Junior Evans, Jack Goldsberry, John Goodchild, Clifford Kerns, Robert Kline, Jack Lake, Robert Moon, Mary Reeser, and Donald Wells.

In order to obtain a letter one must be in the band two years, one year of which must be spent in the high school. C. F. Zaenglein said that more members will receive letters the latter part of this year or the first of next.

During the past two weeks the bands have been holding daily marching session at which time they practiced selections for the Pumpkin Show.

According to Mr. Zaenglein the Senior band will participate in the band parade in an effort to win the prize of thirty-five dollars. This would be applied to the fund for uniforms.

Miss Leist closed the program by reading a poem, "A Friend From Home," by Edgar A. Guest. Clear Creek Valley Grange of Amanda will present the program at the next session of Washington Grange, the meeting to begin at 7:30 p. m.

Presbyterian Missionary Society
The play, "Such as I Have," was presented by members of the stewardship department of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church Friday at the afternoon session of the all day meeting at the church. Many guests were present for the program in addition to the 30 members who enjoyed the noon luncheon served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Those participating in the play were Miss Sadie Brunner, Mrs. Crites, Mrs. C. F. Repligle and Mrs. Robert T. Kelsey. The morning was passed in sewing.

GARDEN-GRAPH

Certain bulbs and perennials, including Sweet William, candytuft and Madonna lilies, carry their evergreen foliage over winter, but these plants need to have their foliage protected with a light covering of straw, excelsior or hay.

Another group of perennials, including foxgloves, campanulas and delphinium, are sensitive to water standing around their crowns. In other words, they hate "wet feet." A method of preventing this condition is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Scrape away a half inch of soil around each plant, then fill up the plant with coal ashes or sand, as illustrated.

This procedure prevents water from standing about the crown of the plant and assures adequate surface drainage. After the ground has frozen over, a mulch of Stevenson was in charge of the devotional period which was devoted to the study of stewardship. Mrs. Repligle played musical interludes between the scenes of the play.

Morris Chapel Aid

Mrs. James Pierce and Mrs. Olen Schooley were joint hostesses to the members of Morris Chapel Aid Society Thursday at the Pierce home, Pickaway Township. Mrs. Albert Musselman, president, led the session which opened with group singing followed by the repetition of the favorite scripture verses of each member. Prayer by Mrs. Roy England was followed by a reading by Mrs. Joe Anderson and a vocal solo by Mrs. Jacob Glitt. The secretary's report and roll call followed. Mrs. Pierce played a piano solo. Group singing and prayer by Mrs. John Chalfin closed the session.

Several enjoyable contests were in charge of Mrs. V. D. Kerns. The hostesses served lunch at the close of the afternoon. The November hostesses include Mrs. Lyman Riffel and Mrs. Charles Mowery, both of Pickaway Township. The place of meeting will be announced later.

Guests at Dunlap Home

Mr. and Mrs. Renick W. Dunlap of Congo Farm, near Kingston have for their guests over the week end, Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Smith, of East Chicago. Saturday they attended the Ohio State Northwestern football game at Columbus and enjoyed a luncheon at the Faculty Club on the university campus.

TO CIRCLEVILLIANS

Did you see the C. H. S.-Greenfield football game? If so you saw and heard the Circleville high school band. At present the band is in dire need of uniforms. Several civic organizations of the city have funds for this purpose. Don't you think that uniforms would help the appearance of your high school band?

Charles F. Zaenglein, band instructor has stated that at present the band has many talented pupils and that the oncoming members are very promising.

Why not get behind your band and give it a boost by supporting all campaigns to raise funds for new uniforms?

RESERVES PLAN INITIATION WED.

Plans were made Wednesday for the Senior Girl Reserve initiation evening, October 25, from five until eight o'clock. At that time six new girls will be taken into the club. These girls are Elmina Morrison, Stella Mae Skinner, Lena Mae Webb, Grace Wagner, Doris Waters, and Norma Jean Wolfe.

This year the club voted to dispense with any kind of informal initiation. A formal ceremony will be planned by the cabinet with the help of a ceremonial committee composed of Barbara Johnson, chairman, Ruth Gard, and Rose Anne Griner.

Mary Kathryn Pile, chairman, Peggy Goeller, Goldie Isaac, and Martha Mavis will be in charge of food preparation.

Mary Fickhardt is in charge of the clean-up squad, with Norma Brown, Imogene Justice, and Bernice Strawser as her helpers.

During the meeting it was decided that the club will collect sales tax stamps and use the proceeds for charity. Club members are requested to bring their stamps to Betty Sapp every Wednesday.

Senior Girl Reserves, along with other school organizations, will march in uniform in the school parade at Pumpkin Show. Both the Junior and Senior Girl Reserves intend to march in triangular formation, as the triangle is one of the symbols of the organization.

RESERVES HOLD SECOND MEETING

Monday the Junior Girl Reserves held their second meeting of the year. At this meeting the program for the year was read and the club decided to have the program printed in booklet form.

A wiener roast was planned for Monday, October 16, instead of the regular meeting. Any business will be discussed at the wiener roast. Committees for the hike are: firebuilding: Viola Arledge, chairman, Florence Dresbach, and Martha Pile; location: Betty Moeller, chairman, Jeanne Manson, and Nell Jean Moore. All girls are requested to meet at five o'clock in front of the high school.

This year is the first year that Circleville High School will be represented in the Pumpkin Show. In the high school parade the Junior Girl Reserves will march in their uniforms of a blue skirt and white shirt.

DISCUSSION HELD IN CIVICS CLASS

Wednesday in sixth period social civics class, Lloyd Jones and Paul Turner held a debate on the subject: "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt a Plan of Complete Isolation." Lloyd upheld the negative, and Paul the affirmative.

Leland Siegwald, chairman, announced that the affirmative presented the better arguments and the victory should go to that side. Following the debate there was a general class discussion of the subject. The class, however, favored the points presented by the negative.

Pupils were excused from fifteen minutes of their fourth period classes and twenty minutes of their sixth period classes, Wednesday, to make adjustments in their yearly schedules.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is Fire Prevention Week, and people are to become fire-conscious for at least a week.

Firemen have asked the support of the citizens of the United States in helping them to keep down the number of fires in this country. Each of the teachers in grades one through twelve has given a talk or program on fire prevention during this week. They have also discussed the subject in their English and reading classes.

Folks, have you noticed the one-man cheering section immediately behind the bench at the football games? More noise and advice and encouragement emanates from this "one-man gang" than from any other given section in the stands. Dan McClain is "it" name and do we appreciate him? We should say so. Thanks Dan, lots more of the same.

MAGAZINE SALES CONTINUE

Until the magazine company's representative, Jim Gaffner, returns, the junior class magazine contest will continue. Although the class has fallen short of its goal so far, the team captains term the contest "fairly successful."

TURNER CHOSEN E. M. S. PRESIDENT

Tuesday evening, at 3:45 the E. M. S. held a special meeting for the purpose of electing officers, planning the year's program, and preparing an initiation of new members.

Paul Turner was elected president of the club for the '39-'40 school year; Norma Jean Brown, vice president; and Rose Anne Griner, secretary-treasurer. Miss Margaret Rooney, club adviser, conducted the elections after which the new president took charge.

A new plan for preparation of programs was drawn up. The club will be divided into small committees composed of from three to six members who are interested in different forms of literary expression. Members and divisions are as follows: drama—Lloyd Jones, chairman, William Burgett, Dorothy Cook, Polyanna Friedman; poetry—Marvne Hensess, chairman, Helen Beck, Norma Jean Brown, Rose Anne Griner, Lois Madison, and Mary Adele Snider; fiction—Norma Jean Starkey, chairman, Lois Johnson, Bernice Strawser; biography—Mary Adele Snider, chairman, Rose Anne Griner; essays—Paul Turner, chairman. The people on all these committees volunteered.

After this part of the business had been completed, the drama committee was asked to present the program at the next meeting. The prospective members were then dismissed, and plans for the initiation were discussed. Paul Turner appointed the following committees to arrange for the event. Mary Adele Snider is in charge of the initiation committee.

As her aides she will have Helen Beck, Polyanna Friedman, and Bernice Strawser. Norma Jean Brown and Rose Anne Griner are in charge of food preparation.

STOOGES NAMED ON COMMITTEES

Last Tuesday evening at the home of William Thornton, the Stooze club held its regular meeting. President Orr appointed several committees for work during Pumpkin Show. Frank Davis heads the food committee. He is aided by Robert Brown, Harry Clifton, Gale Hitchcock and Howard Orr.

Next, the president appointed Tom Harden, chairman, Jack Beck, and Robert Goeller to install gas in the booth. The equipment committee is composed of William Thornton, chairman, Henry Davis and Sam Stubbs. Advertisements will be taken care of by Hulse Hays, chairman, and Tom Dewey. Monday at 3:00 a. m. Tom Harden, chairman, Jack Beck, Frank Geib, Clark Martin and Paul Walters will move the Stooze booth to its location on the corner of Court and Main Streets.

This year the club will again have its usual menu of hot dogs, hamburgers, all kinds of cold beverages, hot chocolate, soups, and pies.

EDITORIAL

What Is The Difference

Last week we were 428 students with very few things in common. This week we are a student body with a single common purpose. Last week our heads drooped when folks from other towns mentioned our school or its athletic teams. This week we are proud to be students of this high school and very proud of our football team. Why have we changed? Why are we no longer the meek, docile, student body we were before? Can it be that winning one football game has given us a new perspective on life and made tomatoes of some of us who were mice?

The answer to that last question I believe to be a loud and raucous positive. Winning at anything does something to anyone. It picks up the spirit, it pushes the chest out, and the chin up. It quickens the stride and creates a gleam in the eye.

Now how to keep and improve this grand and glorious feeling.

First I should say that an improvement in our attitude around the school is one thing that would increase and improve our new-found oneness of spirit. Do not resent the authority of those placed over us to guide and help us. The administration and the faculty, to be successful themselves, must first see us succeed. Let us cooperate and work with the teachers instead of trying to pull the other way.

We will be better satisfied and in the end we will be far ahead if we do as they want us to and not as we foolishly desire.

Next, let us get on the books and improve our scholastic record. Our scholastic records are far from atrocious, but they can stand improvement. It is our school, but our records are our own. These records stay with us for life and go a long way toward forming our characters and determining what we shall do. So it is up to us to improve ourselves.

How many of us know the meaning of the word altruism? It is one of the nicest words I know. To me its meaning is grace, culture, and kindness—all in one. It means regard for others. We students are mighty, mighty careless about our respect for the rights of others. Many students here are kind and considerate, but once in a while some one oversteps the bounds of good taste and injures the feelings of some of his friends, classmates, or teachers for no apparent cause. Let us guard against such a thing. There is no occasion for this if we only observe the golden rule of Elbert Hubbard, "Do unto others as thou would be the others."

Now for our winning athletic teams. They don't come without a great deal of work and attention. Knowledge of the game, fundamentals, spirit, and team morale all play their parts. The boys who play the game should be the first to be considered. They should not smoke, drink, stay up late, or eat between meals. They know this and we all should help them remember it. They represent us and we want to be well represented. When we see the boys doing something they shouldn't a gentle reminder will help them replace the bad habit with a good one. Keep the minds of the boys on football. Show them how much we believe in them and want them to win, and they will.

It is my belief that a combination of these things will increase our spirit and improve our school. To a degree that will keep our team winning, and our self respect and respect for others at a very high level. I think it is worth a real trial, don't you?

FORMER TEACHER VISITS

Mrs. Robert Cassil, nee Margaret Brennan, was a visitor in Circleville high school Monday. Mrs. Cassil, a former teacher in Circleville public schools, is now living in Logan, Ohio. She was the guest of Miss Elma Rains for several days this week and visited classes in various school buildings.

TWELVE PUPILS RECEIVE TOKENS FOR GOOD WORK

This week twelve members of the Circleville High band were given band letters. These are Gerald Ayers, Glenn Barnhart, William Burgett, Junior Evans, Jack Goldsberry, John Goodchild, Clifford Kerns, Robert Kline, Jack Lake, Robert Moon, Mary Reeser, and Donald Wells.

In order to obtain a letter one must be in the band two years, one year of which must be spent in the high school. C. F. Zaenglein said that more members will receive letters the latter part of this year or the first of next.

During the past two weeks the bands have been holding daily marching session at which time they practiced selections for the Pumpkin Show.

According to Mr. Zaenglein the Senior band will participate in the band parade in an effort to win the prize of thirty-five dollars. This would be applied to the fund for uniforms.

CLUB INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

Wednesday evening at 7:00 your reporter was one of the eight boys initiated into the Hi-Y club. Since I was on the receiving end of the evening's "goings-on," I can give you a first-hand account of them.

At 7:00 old members of the club lined up eight new applicants in room 109 of the high school building. These eight initiates were: David Betts, William Burgett, Abner Griffee, Robert Melvin, Mac Moore, Paul Turner, Frank Webb and Virgil Wolfe. Having been "declothed" down to our innermost covering, we were seated in various positions and were given a "razzle-dazzle"—"Name the platform of the Hi-Y!" "What does the Hi-Y stand for?" "Which is the better club, the Stooze or the Hi-Y?" If we hesitated in answering the above questions we were given a little encouragement at the end of various shaped paddles.

Having completed the "razzle-dazzle" we were led into various high school rooms and were subjected to various kinds of inhuman treatment. Some of the treatment included smelling poisonous gas, taking an airplane ride, being "electrocuted" eating raw eggs and doing various dances.

Having passed the above portion of the mild (?) initiation we were led back to our knotted clothes and told to put them on backwards.

As the last part of the test each new member was given a slip of paper on which was stated some very hard task which involved a lot of walking. Your reporter was assigned the following task—"Go to the ice house and buy ten pounds of ice which you will carry to an uptown location. Do not lay the ice down because you will be watched, which completed the evening that comes but once in a lifetime.

Three other boys were also accepted as members of the club but two of them, Harold Hill and Harold Smith, had received their initiation last year and the third one, Glenn Barnhart, is in Berger hospital.

CLASSES GATHER IN AUDITORIUM

Monday morning, at 8:30, the four high school classes and the eighth grade gathered in the auditorium. At this time the whole school celebrated one victory of the football team on October 4. The Senior band members played several musical numbers.

Coach Roy Black spoke briefly on his reaction to the team's success and congratulated the boys on their fine work.

are good friends. Nearest break between them, strangely enough, occurred over a dog.

HULL VS. TOBY
Welles is a great dog-lover. Almost any stray beast which he or Mrs. Welles may meet is likely to be adopted. Their home is full of a motley assortment of pups which get sumptuous repasts on separate trays in the main dining-room.

One of the Welles dogs is named Toby, who happens to be the grouchiest of all, and who also happens to be Sumner's pet. Toby is so grouchy that when the Welleses were in Panama this month, the chambermaid at their hotel purchased a mechanical mouse to distract Toby while she cleaned.

Toby is the constant consort of the Under Secretary of State, whether he is attending a conference in Buenos Aires or Havana. And it was Toby who caused a temporary breach between Welles and his chief. On the steamer returning from the Buenos Aires conference, Mr. and Mrs. Hull and Mr. and Mrs. Welles occupied staterooms in a reserved part of the ship.

Toby was there, too, and took it on himself to dispute the right of the Secretary of State to occupy this area, with the result that on one occasion Hull called a ship's officer and lapsed into choice Tennessee mountaineer language in describing "that damned Welles dog." Then he summoned his Under Secretary and told him off.

During the remainder of the trip, the Welleses and the Hulls were not as cordial as they might have been.

NO BABY-KISSING
Welles is a tall and austere gentleman who looks the proverbial British diplomat but is not nearly as forbidding as he looks. Caught off-guard, he will laugh at a good story, even tell one himself. His stories are in fact the better for their rarity.

Welles is suspected of nursing a sneaking ambition to dip into politics in Maryland, where he has built a magnificent estate immediately across the river from Mount Vernon. Diplomacy, however, is Welles' forte, not politics. For him to slap a back would be as incongruous as Neville Chamberlain kissing babies.

Welles has two weaknesses as a diplomat: (1) he is not a good judge of human nature; and (2) he is overworked. The latter is partly dependent upon the first. State Department personnel, although improved, still lacks outstanding figures, so that Welles far abler than those around him, is swamped with work. Also he is under the frequent necessity of accepting the judgment of underlings.

MISTAKES IN POLICY
This is where he has made major mistakes. On South America, which he has made a life-long study, Welles is unbeatable. He, and he alone, is responsible for the long series of New Deal successes below the Rio Grande.

But in Europe he has committed tragic errors, one of them having been the policy toward Spain, which he now admits was deplorable. Another was to follow the Chamberlain appeasement policy—though here Welles woke up long before Chamberlain did.

Probably the key to these mistakes is that Welles, a thoroughly honest gentleman, comes from the old school which expects honesty in others. And it took him some time to realize that Hitler was a bundle of human nerves, prejudices and ambitions who had to be handled, not on the basis of the treaties he signed, but as a highly volatile and undependable human being.

Because he is shy and somewhat aloof from his fellowmen, Welles has the reputation of being high-hat and reactionary. But he is not. He is much more liberal than Cordell Hull, although perhaps not so liberal as his chief in the White House.

Welles first met the President as a boy in knee breeches attending the wedding of Franklin and Eleanor. They have been close friends ever since. And it is this team today which really directs the foreign affairs of the United States.

WHEAT CROP INSURANCE APPLICATIONS GO UP OVER 500 PERCENT THIS YEAR

BOGGS REPORTS 236 COUNTY MEN WITH POLICIES

Interest Rate On Corn And Wheat Loans To Be Cut After November 1

A 521 percent increase in the number of applications for 1940 wheat crop insurance for Pickaway County was announced today by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA Committee. This represents an increase of 198 applications or a total of 236.

"These farmers will be guaranteed 50 or 75 percent of their average yields and will be protected by the 'all-risk' policy from any damages such as drought, winterkill, smut, fire, hail, Hessian Fly and other natural hazards.

The 236 policies insure a production of approximately 66,151 bushels of wheat on 5128 acres at a total cost of only $641 bushels of wheat.

"A large number of our policyholders are repeaters," the chairman said. "Many of them did not suffer crop losses last year but they did not hesitate to make application for insurance on the 1940 wheat crop."

The interest rate on all corn and wheat loans under the AAA farm program will be reduced from 4 to 3 percent per year, effective November 1, Mr. Boggs said.

"This reduction applies to 1937 and 1938 corn that has been re-sealed, 1939 wheat loans and the new 1939 corn loans to be announced soon," the chairman said. The chairman estimated that about 8800 Ohio borrowers will save approximately $20,000 by the cut in the interest rate.

"Banks and lending agencies holding loans made prior to November 1, 1939 under current programs will be allowed the interest rate specified in the present contracts of purchase, but in all instances the rate to farmers will be reduced from 4 to 3 percent," he said. The reduction in the interest rate to farmers was announced by the Department of Agriculture following a conference between representatives of the American Bankers Association and officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

CIO CLOSES ITS CONFAB, FAVORS F. D.'S ARMS ACT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Leaders of the Congress of Industrial Organizations started back toward their home throughout the nation today after a whirlwind convention in San Francisco.

The convention adjourned last night, after 40 delegates managed to pass four score resolutions without dissent and stated their position on every major problem facing labor.

Throughout the sessions rang the cry of "organize the unorganized." It was the contention of CIO President John L. Lewis that the CIO will contain 10,000,000 members in five years, whether or not unity is achieved with the AFL, and the delegates seemed to agree with him.

A secondary strain running through the resolutions and other actions of the convention was the belief that labor, and particularly the CIO, should have a louder voice on public bodies, in federal, state and local governmental agencies.

Four actions of the convention stood out above the others; the CIO's position on war, on labor unity, on political action and on the national labor relations board.

Regarding war, the delegates unanimously supported President Roosevelt's efforts to have the arms embargo repealed, expressed their desire to keep America out of war, asked for a taxation curb on war profiteering and expressed their determination to enroll more workers into their movement as a means of educating them against going to war.

FORMER RESIDENT OF S. BLOOMFIELD IS DEAD

Residents of the South Bloomfield and Ashville community learned Saturday of the death of Mrs. John Barnes, a former resident of South Bloomfield, at her home near Reynoldsburg.

MOVE TO HALT PROFIT ON WAR GAINS STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The Roosevelt administration will propose a "war profits tax" measure to congress in the regular session in January, Rep. John M. Coffey (D) of Washington, leader of the house "progressive bloc," predicted today.

He added that he understood that treasury experts already are making a study of the profits of taxation.

The administration, however, has definitely rejected proposals that a "war profits tax" be enacted to accompany the proposed revision of the Neutrality Act and repeal of the arms embargo, it was learned.

While many measures to take profits out of any war that the United States might engage in have been pending in congress for years, the house "progressive bloc" is leading a fight for a special tax levy in anticipation of repeal of the arms embargo.

The proposal has been laid before President Roosevelt on the ground that repeal would result in huge exports to warring European nations and bring big profits into the hands of munitions makers.

There is a possibility, members of the bloc indicated, that a tax measure might be recommended, even if the embargo is not repealed, because huge profits might result from shipment of metals and other raw materials to warring nations.

"I am satisfied that the administration will recommend a tax in January," said Coffey. "I understand that the treasury is studying the situation."

It is not clear yet whether bombs, planes or leaflet showers will win this war.

Program of Varied Interest Offered By Films

BOB "Bazooka" Burns appears as the sheriff and Ken Maynard as a rarin' cowboy in "Tombstone Canyon" appearing Sunday at the Circle Theatre. Also on the screen will appear "A Star is Born," starring Fredric March and Janet Gaynor. This film is in technicolor.

TEX Owens, the original Texas Ranger, and the five Novelty Aces, (shown above) both acts featured on the WLW Boone County Jamboree, will appear in person in matinee and evening stage shows at the Grand Theatre, Thursday, October 19. The five Novelty Aces, top instrumental, vocal, and entertaining combination of the WLW Boone County folk, besides being featured on the Jamboree programs on Saturday night, and the Top of the Morning programs, are also heard five mornings weekly at 8 a. m.

VIRGINIA GREY, one of the up-and-coming starlets on the M-G-M roster, plays her most important screen role to date as Wallace Beery's daughter and Chester Morris' sweetheart in "Thunder Afloat," thrilling naval drama which opens Sunday at the Cliftona.

thickness from 4 to 13 inches, besides protective bulkheads.

Of striking appearance, the Royal Oak had a towering foremast and a tall crane. She also was equipped with a catapult for launching airplanes.

Three U-Boats Sunk

As if to minimize the impact of the news that one of the prides of the navy was sunk, the Admiralty announced that the three U-boats sent to the bottom on Friday the 13th were of the large, ocean-going type.

Loss of the Courageous and Royal Oak mark the sole submarine successes against the British navy admitted by the Admiralty, although the Germans have claimed several war craft were hit by raiding bombers.

The Royal Oak was recommissioned June 7, 1939, after another extensive refitting, which made her one of the most modernly equipped vessels in the fleet. She participated in the battle of Jutland during the World War, and was under fire in the Spanish civil war.

'RIPPER' FIGHT GOES TO COURT; HEARING FIXED

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—The Civil Service "ripper" referendum fight was carried to the Franklin County Common Pleas court today as next Friday was set for hearing of a protest against disqualification of signatures made by the county election board.

The protest was filed by Arthur L. Limbach, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee. Similar action has been taken in Allen, Huron, Licking, Paulding, Pike, Stark and Washington counties.

The Franklin County board disqualified 1,462 signatures out of 5,942.

CHILD BORN WITH VITAL ORGANS OUTSIDE OF BODY

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 14.—A rare case in medical history—that of a boy born with the entire stomach, liver and intestines resting on the outside of the body—was watched with interest today by attending physicians to see if it would live.

Surgeons restored the displaced organs to their proper positions within the body in a three hour operation and said the baby would recover if it lived 48 hours.

A cavity in the abdominal wall, it was said, brought about the unusual case. The child was the fifth in the family. The mother was reported well.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Autos driven by Mrs. T. E. Dougherty, 1547 Ashland Avenue Evanston, Ill., and F. S. Johnson, 575 South Front Street, Columbus, were damaged in a traffic accident Friday on South Court Street at Mill Street. Police said Mr. Johnson stopped for a traffic light and the car driven by Mrs. Dougherty struck the rear of the Johnson car. No one was hurt.

would be disqualified because they are aliens and 72,440 are gainfully employed and would not seek the pension.

Taxes Provided

The speaker pointed out that the amendment sets up two taxes to pay the bill. One is a 20 mill tax on real estate valued at the rate of $20,000 an acre and up and an income tax equal to one fourth of what was paid the federal government last year. Small homes, the types built as close as 10 to an acre and worth $2,500 or more, will be caught under the tax.

Operation of the plan would cost $10 millions of dollars a year as compared with 170 millions of dollars a year for the present setup. Taxes would be boosted 300 percent. The amendment would have a first lien on taxes. Under the present relief system there are 121,000 persons now on pension with payments averaging $22.65 a month.

If the plan is adopted the old age subsidy claims would have to be paid before funds would be available for other state services. This would work a hardship on schools, he said.

The second amendment provides the number of names required to institute a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution, permitting 100,000 signatures to start such a movement.

This amendment, the group was told, would give a minority group a distinct advantage to sponsor an issue to the disadvantage of a majority. It was pointed out this amendment would work the greatest hardship on the rural population. Large cities could boost amendment to the disadvantage of the rural areas.

The group was informed that Dr. Townsend said the pension plan would not work. Adoption of the plan would drive business from Ohio due to increase taxes, Tranter explained.

Ashville and New Holland were represented in the meeting. Plans were made to have literature distributed on oil and gasoline trucks covering all sections of Pickaway County.

DRUNK DRIVER JAILED

Edward Hall, Kingston Route 1, was committed to the county jail Friday evening when he failed to pay a fine of $100 and costs on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The fine was assessed by Mayor W. B. Cady. Hall was arrested October 11 by the State Highway Patrol on Route 23.

STERLING, FAMED PIE TOSSER OF MOVIES, IS DEAD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—Hollywood today mourned the passing of a great trouper—Ford Sterling, 52-year-old veteran "Keystone Kop" of the pie-hurling days of motion pictures.

The comedian, whose antics once were known wherever motion pictures were to be seen, lost a year-long gallant battle late last night against thrombosis of the veins.

At his bedside was his wife, Teddy Sampson, with whom he was reconciled in 1932 after a separation of 13 years. Sterling had been in the hospital since June of last year. In August his left leg was amputated in an effort to stay the disease.

HUNDLEY DIVORCE

A decree of divorce was filed in Common Pleas Court Saturday in the case of Emanuel Hundley, York Street, against Rosemary Hundley, West Main Street. The plaintiff was granted the divorce. Mrs. Hundley was granted custody of a child and $3 a week for support of the child.

WHEAT CROP INSURANCE APPLICATIONS GO UP OVER 500 PERCENT THIS YEAR

BOGGS REPORTS 236 COUNTY MEN WITH POLICIES

Interest Rate On Corn And Wheat Loans To Be Cut After November 1

A 521 percent increase in the number of applications for 1940 wheat crop insurance for Pickaway County was announced today by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA Committee. This represents an increase of 198 applications or a total of 236.

"These farmers will be guaranteed 50 or 75 percent of their average yields and will be protected by the 'all-risk' policy from any damages such as drought, winterkill, smut, fire, hail, Hessian fly and other natural hazards.

The 236 policies insure a production of approximately 66,151 bushels of wheat on 5128 acres at a total cost of only 5641 bushels of wheat.

"A large number of our policyholders are repeaters," the chairman said. "Many of them did not suffer crop losses last year but they did not hesitate to make application for insurance on the 1940 wheat crop."

The interest rate on all corn and wheat loans under the AAA farm program will be reduced from 4 to 3 percent per year, effective November 1, Mr. Boggs said.

"This reduction applies to 1937 and 1938 corn that has been reseeded, 1939 wheat loans and the new 1939 corn loans to be announced soon," the chairman said.

The chairman estimated that about 6800 Ohio borrowers will save approximately $20,000 by the cut in the interest rate.

"Banks and lending agencies holding loans made prior to November 1, 1939 under current programs will be allowed the interest rate specified in the present contracts of purchase, but in all instances the rate to farmers will be reduced from 4 to 3 percent," he said.

The reduction in the interest rate to farmers was announced by the Department of Agriculture following a conference between representatives of the American Bankers Association and officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

CIO CLOSES ITS CONFAB, FAVORS F. D.'S ARMS ACT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14—Leaders of the Congress of Industrial Organizations started back toward their home throughout the nation today after a whirlwind convention in San Francisco.

The convention adjourned last night, after 400 delegates managed to pass four score resolutions without dissent and stated their position on every major problem facing labor.

Throughout the sessions rang the cry of "organize the unorganized." It was the contention of CIO President John L. Lewis that the CIO will contain 10,000,000 members in five years, whether or not unity is achieved with the AFL, and the delegates seemed to agree with him.

A secondary strain running through the resolutions and other actions of the convention was the belief that labor, and particularly the CIO, should have a louder voice on public bodies, in federal, state and local governmental agencies.

Four actions of the convention stood out above the others; the CIO's position on war, on labor unity, on political action and on the national labor relations board.

Regarding war, the delegates unanimously supported President Roosevelt's efforts to have the arms embargo repealed, expressed their desire to keep America out of war, asked for a taxation curb on war profiteering and expressed their determination to enroll more workers into their movement as a means of educating them against going to war.

MOVE TO HALT PROFIT ON WAR GAINS STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Roosevelt administration will propose a "war profits tax" measure to congress in the regular session in January, Rep. John M. Coffee (D) of Washington, leader of the house "progressive bloc," predicted today.

He added that he understood that treasury experts already are making a study of the profits of taxation.

The administration, however, has definitely rejected proposals that a "war profits tax" be enacted to accompany the proposed revision of the Neutrality Act and repeal of the arms embargo, it was learned.

While many measures to take profits out of any war that the United States might engage in have been pending in congress for years, the house "progressive bloc" is leading a fight for a special tax levy in anticipation of repeal of the arms embargo.

The proposal has been laid before President Roosevelt on the ground that repeal would result in huge exports to warring European nations and bring big profits into the hands of munitions makers.

There is a possibility, members of the bloc indicated, that a tax measure might be recommended, even if the embargo is not repealed, because huge profits might result from shipment of metals and other raw materials to warring nations.

"I am satisfied that the administration will recommend a tax in January," said Coffee. "I understand that the treasury is studying the situation."

It is not clear yet whether bombs, planes or leaflet showers will win this war.
